BOSTON POLICE HUNT COMRADE'S SLAYER

OFFICER PETERSON DIES; HUNT ASSASSIN

Patrolman Albert R. Peterson, attached to the Joy street station, who was shot by an unidentified man at Green and Pitts streets early today, died at the Relief Hospital at 12:20 this afternoon. His family was at his bedside.

The police department is conducting a thorough search for the murderer of Patrolman Peterson, and in this search the police of nearby towns and cities have joined.

The shooting of Patrolman Peterson is one of the most mysterious cases with which the police have had to do for some time. The motive for shooting the officer, a veteran of the Spanish-American war, has not been learned. Peterson had just relieved his partner, Patrolman Murphy, and was later engaged in conversation. It is said, by two men, one of whom fired the shot. The bullet entered Peterson's abdomen. The men escaped.

Peterson was barely able to stagger into a nearby cafe and ask the clerk in charge to summon an ambulance and the police, saying he had been shot. He was soon unconscious.

When taken to the Relief Station Peterson was revived enough to give Sergeant Parker a description of the man who shot him. He said he knew the man by sight, but not by name. This is the only clew the police are working on.

Doctors at the hospital made several attempts to locate the bullet.

GIRL THROUGH WITH JOHNSON

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Miss Lucille Cameron, the girl in the case, promised to tell today the "truth about Jack Johnson."

When seen at the United States marshal's office she presented a wonderful transformation to those who saw her last week. The hardened look which she acquired in defiance to her mother's wishes and associations with the negro pugilist had softened into the womanliness of her pretty features. She smiled at every occasion. A passing hand was applauded by her as she heard it play.

"Maude seems better now that I have returned to mother," she said. "I'm glad I have seen the light at last. I'm going back home when this is over and devote my life to doing some useful work. I will never see Johnson again."

"Are you going to testify against him?" she was asked.

"I am going to help mother all I can. If they call me before the jury today, I will tell the truth about Johnson."

The girl shuddered as she spoke the name of the champion pugilist. A week ago she defied her mother and the officials in his defence. Today her whole being seemed to revolt against the negro.

"Yes," she repeated apparently talking to herself, "I am going back home and do something useful. I am going to do something that will help the world."

TRAWLER LOST MAN OFF BOSTON LIGHT

The steam trawler Hercules arrived at T Wharf today with her flag at half-mast. Captain Steele said that last Thursday, when off Boston Light, in a heavy sea, Joseph Walker, forty years old, one of the crew, was drowned. Walker with others was dumping ashes overboard. The vessel was stopped, but Walker could not be found.

POET WHITTIER KIN KILLED BY CYANIDE

PROCEDURE IN CASE OF VACANCY ON THE TICKET

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Should a vacancy occur upon the Republican ticket either before or after election, some Republican leaders here today argued, the Presidential Electors, when they meet in January, would have power to vote for any candidate for Vice-President they might choose. Precedents are lacking, but it was declared that only party discipline and honor had in the past bound electors to vote for their party nominee. Probably a choice by the Republican National Committee or its Executive Committee would receive the support of the Taft electors. Ordinarily should there be no Vice-President, the President Pro Tem. of the Senate would preside over that body, and the line of succession to the Presidency would be to the Secretary of State. For the last several months, however, the present Senate has been unable to agree upon a president pro tem., and that office has been vacant.

BULLETIN SAYS SHERMAN IS IN SERIOUS STATE

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 29.—The following bulletin on James S. Sherman's condition was issued at 1 o'clock this afternoon by Dr. F. H. Peck:

The Vice-President is asleep at this hour, and probably will remain asleep all afternoon. He had an excellent night. All symptoms almost entirely disappeared last night, but they recurred this morning, and he is in a very serious condition. However, it is hoped within the next twenty-four hours to accelerate the functions of the kidneys so that Mr. Sherman's improvement will be steady. There is no immediate danger.

Dr. Peck spent practically all of last night at the bedside of the Vice-President, watching for any possible unfavorable development in his patient's condition, but there appeared to be none. Mr. Sherman had less difficulty in breathing and there was less suffering from the kidney involvement than in some hours. He dozed at intervals and toward morning dropped into a sleep which lasted two hours.

When Mr. Sherman awakened he talked a few moments with Mrs. Sherman and assured her he was feeling better and cautioned her against worrying about his condition. The Vice-President also talked briefly with his three sons, all of whom had spent the night at the Sherman home and told them he felt relieved.

Excepting the members of his family the physicians and nurses, no one was permitted to see Mr. Sherman. The greatly weakened condition of his heart makes it imperative that he be not excited in the slightest degree.

TAFT IS CONCERNED ABOUT ILLNESS OF THE VICE-PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Prior to leaving for New York today, President Taft made arrangements to keep informed of any change in the condition of Vice-President James S. Sherman, who is reported dying in Utica, N. Y. The President expressed regret at the discouraging accounts of the vice-president's condition. It was learned at the White House that, should Vice-President Sherman die before next Tuesday, the question of a vice-presidential candidate for the coming term will devolve on the executive committee of the Republican National Committee. In either event the new vice-president will be appointed to serve out Vice-President Sherman's present unexpired term.

BETTING STICKS AT 4 TO 1 ON WILSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Betting in the financial district sticks at 4 to 1 on Wilson, though there are few takers of the short end of this offer. Considerable money at these figures has remained in the hands of betting commissioners for some time without takers. There has been little betting on Roosevelt and Taft recently. Roosevelt is slightly favored over Taft. At Schanm's place $1,000 is offered at 7 to 2 that Roosevelt will be first or second. The betting against Roosevelt and Taft to win is 2½ to 1 against Roosevelt and 3 to 1 against Taft.

DELIRIOUS, JUMPS THROUGH WINDOW

John A. Creighton, twenty-three, of Beverly, jumped from a second-floor window at No. 66 Weston street, Roxbury, today. The police reported that he was delirious when he made the jump. The distance was about fifteen feet. Creighton was badly stunned and was cut and bruised on the head. He was sent to the City Hospital.

His address is given as No. 238 Hale street, Beverly.

ATTLEBORO FIRE LOSS OF $75,000

ATTLEBORO, Oct. 29.—Fire today destroyed the Watson block, in the heart of the business district, and threatened many buildings nearby.

The damage was easily estimated at $75,000.

The Watson block is a two-story wooden structure with stores on the street floor and apartments on the second. One woman was carried out of the burning building by firemen.

NEARLY BACKS PAIR OF HORSES INTO SEA, AND SO TONY FLED

Tony Barberosso, the skipper of a big power fishing boat, is short on knowledge of horses and wagons—particularly horses. Last night Tony went down to Nahant "breshing" for herring and secured about twenty-five barrels of them. He had been up all night. When Tony arrived at Long Wharf today with his herring, a two-horse wagon with twenty-five barrels was waiting for him. The teamster, A. Glines, had stepped into a nearby store and was not present to greet Tony. So Tony started in to back the horses to the end of the wharf. The animals were not fast enough for Tony, so he promptly slapped one of them in the face. Result—they backed faster, so fast that two of the wheels of the wagon went over the wharf and were heading for the water until some of the fishermen got together and pulled them back.

Then A. Glines appeared on the scene, Tony fled. What Glines said was mild.

ACCUSED IN U. S. COURT OF SENDING ANNOYING LETTERS

How John Byrne of Waltham kept on sending her objectionable letters after she had cautioned him to desist was told today to Judge Morton and a jury in the United States District Court by Miss Selma Olsson. Byrne is on trial on the charge of sending Miss Olsson objectionable letters through the mail. Byrne acted as his own counsel.

After Miss Olsson told her story to the court Byrne put a number of questions to her, which she answered at great length.

Miss Olsson was in the employ of Frederick L. Olmstead at Weston when Byrne sent her the letter. She had him arrested once for his attention to her. He was later examined as to his sanity and was found to be sane. He sent more letters after this and she had him arrested again. This time he was indicted.

WANT TAX LOST ON CHOOLS MADE UP

Tax Commissioner William P. T. Treffry held a hearing today at the State House for arguments upon the resolve passed by the Legislature for an investigation of the question of reimbursing cities and towns for loss of taxes on the property of private charitable corporations and educational institutions, and also the advisability of adding such organizations subject to taxation. A. L. Taylor, town counsel of Belmont, made the principal address. He stated that the exemption from taxation of the McLean Hospital is more of a burden than a benefit.

CALLS HYDE PARK PETITION ABSURD

Justice Sheldon of the Supreme Court today dismissed the petition of George E. Pfeiffer and forty-nine other residents of Hyde Park, asking that Judge Edward P. Pierce of the Superior Court be ordered to make an investigation of the sale of the Hyde Park Water Company's plant to taxpayers. Just on Sheldon said the petition was absurd and grotesque, and a mandamus would not lie against a single justice.

INDICT 'L' MAN AS A PERJURER

James D. Andrews, chief engineer of the Elevated power station in Cambridge, was arrested on a secret indictment warrant charging him with perjury and was held for a hearing in $2,000. He was indicted last Friday by the Suffolk Grand Jury.

The perjury charge grew out of a hearing heard before Judge Fox in the Suffolk Superior Court.

Ernest Lyons had brought suit against the Elevated Company for injuries received at the powerhouse in an explosion.

Chief Engineer Andrews testified under oath that the machinery was held up by supports so that the water was allowed to flow off. Lyons testified that the water was in the receiver of the machinery and was not allowed to drain off. This, he claimed, caused the explosion.

Andrews, under oath, said that he made a personal examination of the machinery immediately after the explosion. He said that he found the supports under the machinery as shown in the blue prints exhibited in court. The jury found for the Elevated.

Judge Fox and the people interested in the case, went to the powerhouse at Cambridge, on a Sunday of last February, and held court there for the purpose of making a personal examination. After this examination Judge Fox ordered a new trial.

Andrews' testimony was taken into consideration with the result that after a careful investigation by the District Attorney's office, Andrews was indicted.

Thirty of the forty-eight congressional candidates in the State today have answered the questions recently submitted by the State Federation of Labor concerning their views on the Taylor system, so called. The eighteen candidates not yet heard from are expected to send in their replies before election.

MILK CAUSES STRIKE AT STATE SCHOOL

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 29.—Milk caused a strike when substituted for tea and coffee at the State Industrial School today. Thirty-two prisoners refused to eat.

FOSS ORDERED SCHOOL INQUIRY

John C. Sherman, private secretary to Governor Foss, today officially confirmed the story printed exclusively in yesterday's AMERICA that an investigation of complaints regarding the treatment of certain girl inmates at the State Industrial School for Girls at Lancaster had been ordered by the Governor. He said:

It is true that numerous letters have been received by this office in which charges are made against certain employes at the Lancaster School and other similar institutions in the State.

It is also true that the Governor always orders an investigation of the serious complaints. In such cases, the letters containing the charge or accusation against the institution or official or officials thereof are submitted to the secretary of the board having supervision over the institution in question.

Now, when a letter is received in this office, in which serious charges are made against the Lancaster school, for instance, the matter is almost immediately referred to Robert W. Kelso, the secretary of the State Board of Charity, which has supervision over that school. If an institution for the insane is concerned, the matter goes to Charles E. Thompson, secretary of the State Board of Insanity. These gentlemen must investigate and report to the Governor's office.

All this information was included in a statement which I gave to a reporter for the AMERICAN yesterday. The AMERICAN did not misquote me.

Capsule Fatal to F. N. Whittier, Found Dead in Hotel Apartment.

It was learned today that Fred N. Whittier, the youth whose death by cyanide poisoning is now the subject of police inquiry, was one of the Amesbury Whittiers, the old New England family from which John Greenleaf Whittier, the poet, came.

The discovery of the distinguished connections of the poison victim, who was said to have been reduced to living on his friends, heightened the interest in a case which already has sinister and mysterious features.

STRICKEN WHILE VISITING IN HOTEL.

Whittier, twenty-four years, was stricken ill while visiting in the Hotel Navarre apartments of Wilford J. Litchfield, a college graduate, Master of Arts, historian and genealogist.

An autopsy disclosed that Whittier was killed by a dose of cyanide in capsule form. As it is practically impossible for a man to buy cyanide in a capsule from a druggist, Medical Examiner Leary immediately realized that the first theory of suicide was open to grave doubt.

Mr. Litchfield, who has been closely questioned by Dr. Leary, refuses to be seen today. He will not talk with reporters, but keeps within his hotel rooms.

Statement by Detective.

Mr. Littlefield, who is a man of independent means, talked the case over with his counsel, Cornelius F. Parker. He has retained "Dan" Callahan, head of a detective agency, and the three men conferred in Litchfield's suite at the Navarre. Callahan took down a detailed statement that Litchfield gave him. This statement follows the general lines of that made to the police. Litchfield told Callahan he had known and befriended Whittier for several years. The latter was chronically "broke," and, as Callahan puts it, was a "drug fiend."

Callahan's statement reads in the third person, and goes on as follows:

"Last Wednesday night Litchfield, with a man friend whom he had met in a college fraternity, came home from a theatre about 11 o'clock and found Whittier waiting in the Litchfield apartment. He was drenched with rain and appeared in bad shape. Litchfield secured another room for him, and Whittier left early Thursday morning. He came back the next day for his suit case, which he had left with the clerk.

Whittier Calls Again.

"Litchfield did not see Whittier again until yesterday morning about 9:25 when Whittier called on Litchfield. He appeared in bad shape at that time.

"Litchfield remonstrated with him about his taking drugs.

"About this time Whittier went to the bathroom and, while he was there, he and Litchfield held a short conversation, the bathroom door being closed and Litchfield being on the outside of the door.

"Litchfield then went in the front room. After five minutes Whittier came out, pale, perspiring freely and complaining of severe pains in his head and stomach.

"Litchfield asked the hotel clerk to send a doctor right away and Dr. Ulrich, across the street, came over. He immediately ordered Whittier's removal to the hospital, where he died."

The detective says the elevator boy told him that Whittier did not ride up to Litchfield's flat on the third floor on this last visit, but walked up the stairway, staggering and using the balustrade for support.

Says Man Was Ill.

From this Detective Callahan argues that Whittier was sick or in bad shape when he went to Litchfield's. In Callahan's opinion, if Whittier did commit suicide, he took poison before he went to Litchfield's. This raises the question, how a man could live so long with cyanide of potassium, even in a capsule, in his stomach. But Callahan questions the statement that cyanide was the cause of death.

The detective argues that Whittier lived too long after his illness was discovered, if it be a cyanide victim. Then he figures that Whittier's unfortunate habits were a big factor, saying:

"Whittier being a drug fiend for many years, and his stomach being in the condition it must have been, it would be hard to determine, without a chemical analysis, whether cyanide of potassium or any other drug caused death.

"I would not be surprised if it is learned later that Whittier died from natural causes, superinduced by excessive use of drugs."

Found Violently Ill.

Litchfield told the police and Dr. Leary, after the autopsy on young Whittier's body, a different story, the substance of which was that Whittier and he had been acquainted four years, that Whittier often called at his apartments, that he came again yesterday morning, Litchfield had a caller and Whittier stepped into the bathroom. The next thing Litchfield knew, he went in the bathroom and found Whittier violently ill.

Then Dr. Leary found that cyanide BY CAPSULE was the cause of death.

WHITTIER DEAD OF POISONING

Just how close a tie the dead youth was to the late John Greenleaf Whittier, the poet, is not yet known. Whittiers are scattered all over Essex County, particularly in Haverhill, Merrimac and Amesbury. The old Whittier homestead where the poet was born and of which he wrote so tenderly in "The Barefoot Boy" and other favorite verse is almost on the Haverhill-Amesbury line. This young Whittier of the present gruesome mystery came from Amesbury.

It is seldom that a New England family of such literary and puritanical fame as that of the Whittiers gets mixed up in police activities as in this mystery.

"Shaking Like a Leaf."

J. V. Calcicagh, proprietor of the Hotel Navarre, says of the case:

"I understand that Whittier has been coming to see Litchfield for four years and he was always in the condition, known as being 'down and out.' Whittier appeared to be a drug victim.

"Whenever he came here Litchfield took care of him. While Whittier might have been financially embarrassed, he was a dandy in the way of dress.

"Whittier came here last Wednesday in his usual condition. I am told that he was shaking like a leaf. He went to Litchfield's apartments, expecting that he would be accommodated with lodgings, as he always had been in the past. Litchfield told him that he could not allow him to stop in the apartments.

"Whittier explained that he was without funds and Litchfield hired another suite for the use of Whittier.

"Yesterday morning he came into the hotel, and it is reported to me that he crawled upstairs on his hands and knees until he reached Litchfield's apartments on the third floor.

"Litchfield asked him, why he didn't get a job. Whittier answered 'I am sick.' He then asked for permission to go to the bathroom. He remained there for such a long time that it excited the curiosity of his host. He called Whittier, who came from the bathroom, walked through the short hallway, then staggered to a couch in the room. Physicians were called and Whittier was removed to the hospital.

"He had been a nurse in a Springfield hospital. I am informed that he took some poison there, and that it was while in the service of the hospital he learned how to use drugs."

These significant facts have been revealed:

Whittier for four years had been a constant visitor at Litchfield's room.

Litchfield was well-to-do. Whittier was always "broke," living by borrowing.

The poison which killed Whittier was administered or was taken by him, in capsule form.

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO PURCHASE CYANIDE IN A CAPSULE AT ANY DRUGGIST'S.

It was the fact that the cyanide which killed Whittier was in a capsule that first aroused Dr. Leary's suspicions.

By those investigating the case today, it was pointed out that there is a remarkable similarity between this and the Richeson case.

The victim in one case was a man—in the other, a girl.

BUT

Both died of cyanide poisoning.

Both were discovered, at the point of death, in bathrooms.

Whittier was taken to the hospital from the Hotel Navarre on Columbus avenue, where he was taken ill. The ambulance was summoned by Dr. J. H. Urich of No. 455 Columbus avenue.

Litchfield was closely questioned, first by Medical Examiner Leary, and later by officials of the police, with a stenographer. His story, in substance, was as follows:

Litchfield is thirty-five, of light complexion, and weighing close to 200 pounds, a graduate of St. Lawrence University in New York, and a fraternity man.

He is interested in history, and spends much time in reading and in visits to the rooms of the New England Genealogical and Historical Society.

He has occupied his present suite in the Navarre for the past four years.

Has Many Callers.

He has always received a large mail, and had many male visitors.

Whittier and Litchfield became acquainted four years ago. Whittier was a constant visitor at Litchfield's apartments till last September.

Then he stopped coming. Last Wednesday he came again and stayed for some time.

Yesterday morning he entered the Navarre, walked upstairs, and went to Litchfield's apartments. Litchfield had a caller. Whittier, Litchfield says, went into the bathroom.

The caller left. Litchfield says he became alarmed when Whittier did not come out of the bathroom and went in, to find him vomiting and in agony.

Litchfield says he helped the suffering man out to a couch and summoned Dr. Urich.

DEVELOPMENTS IN BECKER CASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—These are the latest developments in the case of Charles A. Becker, convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal:

In an interview Jack Rose admits having been shocked by the verdict, although he knew it was inevitable. He answers Becker's charge that he and Webber planned to murder "Hachey" Brunnatin to obtain his share in the gambling business by declaring that it is merely a Jack Sullivan invention. He explains that Becker is right in declaring he never paid a dollar, and adds, "but I paid Becker many a dollar—I was Becker's collector."

Becker, despairing of being saved from the electric chair, pleads for sympathy for Mrs. Becker. In a statement intended to discredit Rose, Vallon, Webber and Schepps, he makes amazing revelations concerning his associations with gamblers.

Mrs. Becker, wife of the convicted police officer, answers the implied charge that she deprived the wife and relatives of John F. Finnegan of an inheritance by saying: "I am an honest woman. I will explain on the witness stand and not until then."

Mrs. Elizabeth Finnegan, the widow of the man from whose estate Becker claimed his wife received $15,000, thus accounting for a considerable portion of his "savings," brands the legacy story as false. She declares the small fortune left by her husband is in the custody of her brother-in-law, Dennis Martin.

The four gunmen, "Gib the Blood," "Lefty Louie," "Dago Frank" and "Whitey" Lewis became terror stricken when they learned District Attorney Whitman was searching for evidence which will connect them with other murders. "Whitey," leader of the murder band, will be placed on trial first.

Mrs. Lillian Rosenberg, young wife of "Lefty Louie," was released from the House of Detention on $2,500 bail, because she is to become a mother. Krause tells Chief Glynn "Lefty" threatened he would be the next victim of the gunmen.

"Red Phil" Davidson, slayer of Jack Zelig, goes to trial tomorrow, and Becker will be sentenced to death.

In spite of the bravado of the four gunmen, it was learned today that their counsel has offered to plead guilty for them to murder in the second degree, and that this plea will be accepted by the District Attorney. The District Attorney is willing to have the gunmen sentenced to life imprisonment, the penalty for second degree murder, rather than to the death penalty on the condition that the four gunmen confess and thus preclude any possibility of Becker escaping on a second trial.

William Shapiro, the driver of the gray murder car, has now confessed fully and probably will be granted immunity. "Red Phil" Davidson has offered a plea of manslaughter in the first degree, the maximum penalty for which is twenty years. This has been refused by the District Attorney, who will, however, accept a plea of second degree murder. It was said Davidson would make this plea.

"Lefty Louie" Rosenberg, speaking for himself and the three other gunmen who are shortly to be brought to trial, defied District Attorney Whitman with a defy-to-do declaration that none of them was going to confess and none of them had the least fear.

"Because we have nothing to confess," said "Lefty Louie," "and because we didn't kill Herman Rosenthal."

The gunman issued his defiance of the District Attorney from behind the bars of his cell in the Tombs. He declared he and the others were going to stand together. He asserted none had "collapsed," or was going to.

But Becker became as suddenly silent as "Lefty Louie" became loquacious.

After two statements reviewing his case, Becker closed his mouth tight on the advice of John F. McIntyre, his counsel. Mr. McIntyre, also intimated he would drop the case if Becker insisted on making a statement in court.

This serial is the most talked of story of the season. It has to do with the rebellion of a young girl against the efforts of a reckless father to sacrifice her to social ambitions and blight her life, as he did her mother's.

Its absorbing plot and sustained interest equals and even exceeds "The Christian" or "The Eternal City" by the same author. You cannot afford to miss this great story.

Old Doctor Scotti Tells How You Can Get Thin; He Did It

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Are you supplied with an over-abundance of weddingrats?

Would you like to possess a thin, lithe, athletic form?

If you would, we have no other than the receipt given to us in secret today by Antonio Scotti, he of the tenor voice, who arrived here after a Summer spent abroad amassing additional wealth.

Here it is, in the words of Scotti himself:

"Ha, you would like to be fats, eh—just like me?" as he tapped his waist line, where there was a noticeable absence of girth.

"Well, I'll tell you. It is simple—so simple! First you must not drink any water at meals; wait until two hours after. No, don't drink anything. Never eat a potato—not one; and no fresh bread. That is my secret. That is how I lost twenty pounds."

"How about spaghetti?" asked one of the interviewers.

"Ah," sighed the tenor, a frown spreading across his features. "Spaghetti! Why do you mention spaghetti? You want to make me tell a lie, eh? Well, I'll tell you. You must not eat spaghetti more than twice a week. I have lost twenty pounds."

And the tenor looked it. Much of the time abroad had been spent at the Summer home of Mrs. Bancel, Miss Charlotte Ives, at Evian, France.

"When do you expect to marry Miss Ives?" he was asked.

"Just as soon as possible," he replied. "Miss Ives has a contract with Mr. Frohman which she would not break. But if she can get out of it some way we will be married at once."

It has been reported that Miss Ida Aldine Farrar is broken-hearted as a result of your engagement to Miss Ives," some one informed the tenor.

"Broken hearted?" he replied after a pause. "Such nonsense. Now, please," he requested, "tell your readers Scotti's way to get thin. Then they will all thank me, old Dr. Scotti, for what I have told."

Active, Business-Like Secretary of National Body Invades Men's Field with Success.

MRS. MAUD W. HENRY, HARBOR EXPERT

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

So much has been said and written and done of late about poor old Boston Harbor, which has been restored in every way imaginable ever since the time-honored tea party, that those not vitally interested have been pretty nearly tired out reading and hearing about it.

For this very reason it was with lagging feet and sinking heart that I went out in search of Mrs. Maude Wood Henry, field secretary of the Rivers and Harbors Congress, who is now in Boston and whom I was to interview on this ever interesting topic. Put "o" before that "ever" and it would have suited me to perfection.

What did women want mixing up in that stupid sort of a stunt, I wondered, as I finally neared the last place where I was informed she had stopped for a moment in her swift circuitous route of Boston, where her work is now demanding her attention.

At Realty Exchange.

It was at the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange that I found her, up to her ears in things which I'm sure I could never comprehend if I studied them the rest of my life.

I really didn't know just what sort of woman to expect in this work, but that she must be rather elderly, my mind had settled for a surety. That's one thing that's rather interesting about going out to interview people whom you have never seen before, and have read only that you must interview them. You usually make a mental picture of the person whom you are to confront—sort of an instinctive mental vision. If there could be such a thing, and it is interesting to find out how many times you strike the nail on the head and find just the type of woman you expected.

But here was something brand new and there was no precedent to draw upon—no sample for the "mental vision" to copy and not much interest to stimulate the copying.

At any rate, the woman who looked up to greet me first of all impressed me with her youth—she wasn't within years of the woman I had pictured; next with her keen, quick, deep-set brown eyes, her direct getting down to business, and her all-absorbing interest in her work.

Wins in Men's Work.

I really hadn't intended interviewing her so much on the old Rivers and Harbors stuff; I didn't care a rap about that, but I did want to find out how a mere woman could do all the things she had done and could make the men stand around in open-eyed amazement while she drove ahead and accomplished things. Then, too, I wanted to know some of the things she thought necessary to make the business woman successful, and what chance she had in the business world, and if she were beautiful—I had decided to bring up that highly original question on how she did it.

But the truth of the matter was that while I started several times on these vital topics this slim little lady in a trig black and white striped suit went joyfully on her way telling me "wonderful" things which I couldn't and wouldn't understand about the old harbors and rivers.

Business-like? You never saw anything like it, so after several attempts at interruptions, and trying to turn this eloquent flow of conversation into understandable channels, I gave up hope and simply sat back and waited for some one to come to my rescue.

I knew that Mrs. Henry was the first woman to enter the ranks of the men workers in an official capacity; therefore I watched her with interest. She was appointed by Senator Ramsdell of Louisiana as the president of the national organization, which came as a fitting consummation to her work and accomplishments in the waterway movement, a leading issue in the South.

Advocates Barge Canal.

For the past two years Mrs. Henry has worked in the interests of the proposed barge canal along the Gulf of Mexico, destined to connect the Atlantic coast of Florida with the Mississippi River at New Orleans.

For ten years previous to her connection with the waterway movement, Mrs. Henry was associate editor and business manager of "North and South," the official industrial and immigration magazine of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, and was prominently identified with immigration interests in the Southern States.

I was really beginning to be the slightest bit interested, and commenced to think perhaps there might be women readers of the paper who would be more interested in having the perplexing problem straightened out and talked about, than would be vitally interested in the perplexing problems of "How Would a Man Propose," "Should Girls Use Rouge," "Where a Woman Finds the Fountain of Youth," and a few more of the much discussed but still unsolved problems. Mrs. Henry said:

"You know the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, second in importance to the Congress of the United States, stands for a comprehensive plan of improving all the nation's waterways, and that involves an expenditure of between five and six hundred million dollars.

"Its 'campaign of education' has aroused the entire country to the needs and benefits of water transportation, which not only regulates rail rates but furnishes cheaper and additional means of handling the growing commerce of the United States, which under normal business conditions can no longer be cared for by the railroads unaided.

"You have your Boston bottled up here on the New England coast, doing business by the courtesy of one railroad. Towns can only thrive when they have competitive railroads. Improved water transportation for Massachusetts and all New England to regulate rail rates and relieve the congested condition of the whole place. Massachusetts is frightfully congested.

Means Further Prosperity.

"The port of Boston, by reason of the generosity of Massachusetts in giving the nine million dollars, has gotten ahead of Uncle Sam in providing adequate water terminals. Additional work must be done by the Federal Government to supplement the work of the Commonwealth in developing the port of Boston. This city cannot get the fullest benefit from her own State expenditures until the waterways throughout the country are improved, because waterway development means prosperity for the port of Boston.

"The high cost of living, the cheaper transportation of our fuel, foodstuffs and raw materials used in manufacture, the regulation of rail rates, additional facilities needed to save the commerce of the country from oft-repeated and disastrous congestions, are vitally important matters, too.

WIFE ANGRY WITH BARON

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—With her romantic conception of Baron Richard von Arkovy of Hungary shattered, his wife, who was Miss Elsa Schroeder, daughter of a wealthy business man of this city, has returned to Europe to begin an action for separation.

"I am completely disillusioned," said the flaxenes, whose husband is said to be a relative of Count Ladislaus Szechenyi and a boom friend of Lord Decies, "Bobby" Beresford, Lord Camoys and other noblemen. She said:

I married him because he seemed so handsome and had such charming manners, and not because of his title. For the first year of our marriage, which took place in the early part of 1909, he was extremely devoted. I was delighted. I thought that I really was going to have a life of bliss. But that was only the prelude to unhappiness. I soon discovered things that wrung my heart.

"He was constantly calling on me for money. I gave him all I could get—$200,000. He spent it. He was lavish, but only with others. He bought some jewels for me, but it was with my money. He never spent his own money for me, but used it in entertaining others."

Herz Deserts Show; Marriage to Edna Goodrich Hinted

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Ralph Herz, the comedian, started for Toronto instead of reporting for rehearsal of "Bachelors and Benedicts" at the Victorian Theatre. A few hours later a note was received by James S. Montgomery, one of the authors of the play, in which Herz intimated that he has left to get married.

It is rumored he will marry Edna Goodrich, the latest divorced wife of Nat Goodwin, who is playing a vaudeville engagement in Toronto.

WHY NOT CURE YOUR RHEUMATISM

Do Not Join the Ranks of Hopeless Sufferers When There Is a Remedy Within Reach.

Why are there so many failures in the treatment of rheumatism?

Why are so many sufferers resigned to a life of pain, despairing of a permanent cure?

Because rheumatism defies any treatment that does not build up and purify the blood. The poisons of rheumatism are in the blood and it is only through the blood that the disease can be fought successfully.

Unless the blood is weak and impure, rheumatism cannot get a foothold. When it does the thin and impure blood is not strong enough to overcome the poisons alone. It must be strengthened and purified. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the best blood-building medicine you can take.

Mrs. George Lockard, a farmer's wife, of Landenburg, Pa., found complete relief from rheumatism when she built up and purified the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. She says:

"I suffered for years from rheumatism in the left hip along the sciatic nerve and in the shoulders and hands. I consulted two doctors and while their medicine helped me some, I did not get permanent relief. I suffered so terribly that I used to wish many a time that I was in my grave. My fingers were bent and crippled and I had no use of my left hand for three years. I couldn't step on right with either foot. My suffering took my appetite away and I lost in weight and strength.

"I had been troubled with the rheumatism for over three years before I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Then in less than a month's time I was able to walk better. I became able to use my hand and the swelling of the fingers went down. I used the pills until I was cured."

A booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," containing helpful information will be sent free upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes, $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

'BLUE MOUSE' AT ST. JAMES

A large audience at the St. James Theatre enjoyed Clyde Fitch's farce, "The Blue Mouse"—the best one in his entire list to drive away the gloom.

The play takes its title from the name given an actress. As she goes deeper and deeper into the adventures of the play, the laughter and entertainment increases until the problem becomes so complex that even a chess player would hesitate before making a move. But, as she was responsible for the snarl, she alone succeeds in unraveling it.

As "The Blue Mouse," Ruth Franklin deserves the credit of being one of the most finished comediennes Boston has seen in many a day. Her acting last night was faultless, and her conception of the role, which was a most difficult one, was all that could be asked for.

As Lewellyn, president of the New York Inter-county Railroad, Charles Abbee was at his best. Theodore Friebus, as Lewellyn's secretary, and Mr. Abbee presented a fine bit of team comedy. Mr. Friebus made an able secretary, but most of his duties throughout the performance centered in trying to keep out of trouble. His attempts cannot be described, but one continual laugh, best explains it.

As Mrs. Rollet, Miss Ethel Grey Terry did some clever acting, especially in the last scene, when she is mistaken for "The Blue Mouse" by Lewellyn. Dudley Hawley, as Phillip Searsdale, the fiance of "The Blue Mouse," gave an exquisite portrayal of how a man feels when he thinks something is wrong, but can't find out what.

As Mrs. Lewellyn, Kitty Ryan was reliable as ever. For several years Miss Ryan has appeared before Boston audiences, and her acting is always finished and pleasing.

As Walter, the father of Mrs. Rollet, William C. Walsh was admirable as the "Every stable keeper from Colon." Others of the company who help in making the cast a strong one are: Miss Bella Cairns, Miss Eleanor Potter, Sydney Riley, Harry Fearing, Buck Symon, Hurbert Pierce, Neil J. Scully, Sidney Dudley, H. N. Griffels and D. K. Niles.

Shows That Remain.

"The Quaker Girl" began the last two weeks of its stay at the Colonial last evening.

"Broadway to Paris," with Gertrude Hoffmann is now on its two final weeks at the Shubert.

"Coming Home to Roost" entered upon its final week at the Hollis last evening.

"Little Boy Blue" remains at the Majestic, where its tuneful melodies are growing popular.

Rose Stahl and "Maggie Pepper" began a new week at the Park Theatre last evening.

George Arliss and "Disraeli" continue to draw crowds to the Plymouth.

Gaiety Theatre.

"The Merry Go-Rounders," with George P. Murray as the merriest "go-rounder" of them all, put two big audiences at the Gaiety Theatre in good humor yesterday. Mr. Murphy makes comedy of the German kind, and does it in a manner that leaves no doubt of his intentions. Of course, the show had its full quota of girls in dazzling costumes and catchy song numbers, but it was Mr. Murphy who was the real centre of the fun. "The Merry Go-Rounders" proved to be just the style of burlesque entertainment to catch the crowd, and there was no doubt of it yesterday. There were a number of startling innovations in the program that made the entertainment worth seeing.

National Theatre.

The big feature of the new bill at the National yesterday was Adolfus Knight's "Dream," given by the Top o' the World dancers, in which a ballet of handsome girls in pink was introduced. This act proved to be one of the most attractive that has been seen at this theatre during the season. Joe Conyers was another popular entertainer, and Helen Trix made a pleasing impression.

Scenic Temple.

The regular change in the bill at the Scenic Temple yesterday brought several new vaudeville features to that house, as well as new motion pictures.

Grand Opera House.

Sim Williams' "Girls From Joyland" held two big audiences at the Grand Opera House yesterday in continuous merriment. It was burlesque of the breezy kind.

Hub Theatre.

New pictures and vaudeville made up the program at the Hub Theatre yesterday. The bill was attractive.

Harvard Man's Play at Castle Square

'Butterfly Baronet' Given Its Premiere

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

The same made drama may not be the best in the world, but it at least has the faculty of arousing friendly interest. "Butterfly Baronet" gave Mr. Craig and his company an opportunity to do their prettiest for Mr. Robert Keith Snow's play, and if they failed to convince last evening's audience at the Castle Square, that Mr. Snow is a marvelous man with his pen, it was not due to any indifference on the part of the actor-folk.

Mr. Craig, with his long experience, has doubtless discovered that it is always deliciously safe to project a newly laid play, providing the author is a local man with sound connections. Inasmuch as Mr. Snow is all of that, "Butterfly Baronet" will not suffer from public inattention during the week.

With Mr. Craig, Mary Young and Wilson Melrose, combining their best acting to present "Butterfly Baronet" in its most attractive form, and as the audience last evening appeared to be the special property of Mr. Craig—displaying in many ways its genuine enjoyment at being present —there isn't any real reason why Mr. Snow's maiden effort as a playwright should be treated lightly—or severely.

The rather long cast required for the play compelled Mr. Craig to draw upon outside sources for help, which brought several new faces to the Castle Square stage. The performance ran smoothly, however, which is saying a good deal for the first night of a new play in a stock theatre.

Touch of Melodrama.

As a drama of soft sentiment "Butterfly Baronet" should take first prize under any condition. It also had a touch of melodrama that seemed familiar. Its chief concern, however, was the adaptation of the worthy young men to take Hugh Harcourt to the name map by proxy, to the tune of the merry wedding bells. For two acts matters moved slowly through pages of conversation that led to no place in particular. Then you arrived at the big moment. Young Alfred Blair was about to steal his first betrothal kiss when, gosh ding it, in walked his wife from America. Under ordinary circumstances that would have settled Alfred right on the spot, but Mr. Snow was not dealing with ordinary circumstances when he wrote "Butterfly Baronet."

Trailed to its end, Alfred's apparently shady goal was not discovered at all. He was just the victim of a designing woman. He had been married to the girl, but had divorced her in America, a fact that had no standing in the English courts.

By a strange twist of the playwright's pen, Alfred's clean record—he was never really married to the woman at all—was shown only to his rival, Sir Charles Rivers, who was sorely tempted to let matters take their course, which naturally would give him a clear field in the race for Ruth. But Sir Charles was strong and honest—he cleared Alfred and made the way easy for an early marriage.

Parts Played Well.

Footed again! Right here Sir Charles discovered that Ruth really loved him and that she had promised herself to Alfred for philanthropic reasons only. Alfred, too, saw how things were pointing and graciously left the newly found lovers to fight it out, which they did in each other's arms. How self-sacrificing. The play fairly staggered under it.

Miss Young made Ruth a simple girl of the country—and particularly stupid during the early evening when Sir Charles was trying to make himself agreeable to her. Mr. Melrose was almost too good to be true as Sir Charles, and Carney Christie as Alfred, looked like anything but a lad with a horrible past. Mr. Craig contented himself with the role of Ruth's black sheep brother, who spent most of his time dodging the police and finished his performance by dying in prison.

"Butterfly Baronet" at least revealed Mr. Craig in the role of a producer who is not afraid to take chances with an untried play.

Next Week's Bills.

"Miss Jimsey Valentine" will be the offering at the St. James Theatre next week.

Mr. Craig's Castle Square company will be seen in "The Commuters" next week.

"The Concert" is announced as the next attraction at the Hollis, coming Monday, November 4.

Henry Miller, in "The Rainbow," will come to the Tremont Theatre next Monday.

John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, will be the chief attraction in next week's bill at B. F. Keith's.

Orpheum Theatre.

A dozen new vaudeville features were brought to the Orpheum Theatre yesterday when the regular change of bill took place. Among the new attractions were several that had never been seen in Boston before. A long list of motion pictures was also included in the program.

Bowdoin Square Theatre.

The new feature at the Bowdoin Square Theatre yesterday was the "Lady Minstrels," which easily won first place on the bill. Other vaudeville numbers and new pictures completed the program.

"KISSING" ACT AT B. F. KEITH'S

Henry Bergman, Gladys Clark and Edwina Barry, "first-timers" at B. F. Keith's Theatre, are worthy headliners at the vaudeville home this week.

Henry Bergman and Gladys Clark are the patient and the new nurse in "The Trained Nurses," while Edwina Barry is Dotty Piandaff in "The Home Breaker," and drives not only those in the cast, but quite a few susceptible in the audience, "plumdaffy" by the lavishness of her kisses. Her skit is hung on a kiss—or a number of them—and the pretty little lady well nigh separates a rector and his wife by her mischief.

The Farber girls will name their next when they call it "Dainty Bits of Vaudeville." They are just as sweet as can be and their well-termed "dainties" meet with hearty approval. They sing nicely, dance cleverly, are entertaining and look almost good enough to eat.

Laura Bowker's protean monologue entitled "Studies from Life," is a new idea of presenting, in a merry manner with slight exaggeration, real life pictures of true human interest. Artistically and from a psychological viewpoint she is absolutely correct. Her presentation demonstrated much study and entertaining artistic interpretation.

Globe Theatre.

There were many lively features in the new program at the Globe Theatre yesterday. The Riva Larsen troupe of acrobats contributed a sensational number which caught the fancy of the day's audience. This team of athletes is a European importation, and has never failed to score in any theatre where it has appeared. The Five Seminary Girls, in a miniature musical comedy, added gaiety and melody to the programme, assisted by and Werner, billed as the "Biz Fellows," had no difficulty in putting some spirited comedy across the footlights. A half dozen other features and a new list of motion pictures completed one of the brightest vaudeville bills of the year.

Waldron's Casino.

Bob Manchester's "Cracker Jacks" moved upon Waldron's Casino Theatre yesterday with one of the fastest moving burlesque shows of the season. The entertainment was lively all the way.

Pierce's Corn Plasters

are thin and handy to use—they're sure and effective, too

Unlike thick, clumsy felt plasters, Pierce's Corn Plasters do not cause uncomfortable rubbing and crowding in the shoe. And they remove corns where all other plasters, salves or powders fail. The first application gives instant relief. Try one box. If you aren't satisfied with results, tell the druggist—he'll hand you back your money.

10c and 25c a box. Sold by most druggists. But if you cannot conveniently get them in your neighborhood, send a dime for a small size box to A. P. Pierce Co., Springfield, Mass.

Howard Athenaeum.

English Jack O'Brien, the pugilist, was added to the show at the Old Howard yesterday. He appeared in an athletic sketch called "A Trip from Reno." "The Merle Carlo" burlesque company furnished the balance of the entertainment.

HALT SPEEDING GOULD CHILDREN

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Edwin Gould's two children were held up by a Yonkers policeman when racing through that city from Ardsley in their father's touring car so they would not be late for school in Manhattan. Policeman Morrissey on a motorcycle overtook the car on North Broadway and signalled Otto Zimmerli, the chauffeur, to stop. When the two little Goulds heard the policeman tell the latter he was under arrest one of them began to shed tears. The governess assured the frightened children they were not going to be locked up. The chauffeur paid a $10 fine.

MORGAN BURGLAR SENT TO PRISON

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—John Bernaur, who looted the home of J. P. Morgan, Jr., No. 231 Madison avenue, last January, was sentenced by Judge Swann to not less than five or more than ten years in State prison. Bernaur pleaded guilty, and tonstingly told how easily he entered Mr. Morgan's home, and of the good life he had wandering through the room picking up valuable articles.

CALLS NORTH END 'DISGRACE'

The North End is a disgrace to Boston. Hundreds of babies are murdered there every year. Herod could not compare with us. The church is at fault. It needs dynamite at the very foundation. Some of the old hymns are about as sensible as ragtime. Ministers are afraid to speak the truth.

These were some of the striking sentences in an address on the "Signs of the Times," delivered by the Reverend William G. Puddefoot of Indiana before the Boston Congregational Club at Ford Hall, He continued:

The North End needs to be cleaned up. It is a disgrace to Boston.

Do you know that hundreds of babies are being murdered, virtually, in the North End every year under conditions similar to those of New York? Here are a few New York figures. In one year 16,000 babies died before they were a year old. Half of them, think of it, died from lack of food.

In that great city there are 200,000 dark rooms, the oxygen of which is speedily exhausted. If Herod had slaughtered all the people in Palestine he could not compare with us. And we, who call ourselves Christians, tolerate it.

Business men prefer the golf links to the mumbling of unenthusiastic preachers on Sunday. And no one can blame them.

CARUSO WINS SLANDER SUIT

MILAN, Italy, Oct. 29.—The suit of Enrico Caruso against his one time sweetheart, Signorina Ada Giachetti, for slander, was won by the tenor on every count, and the Public Prosecutor, after summing up and finding the accused guilty on all charges except that of calumny, asked the judge to sentence her to a year in prison and impose a fine of $200. When the decision was announced Le tenor was cheered.

Signorina Giachetti has borne Caruso several children, and for many years was known as his common law wife. She also is well known as a singer. The two fell out after Caruso's chauffeur, Bonnit, eloped with Giachetti and the present action was begun against her as the result of the failure of her suit brought against Caruso last year charging that he intercepted a letter from Gaetano Lorla in behalf of Oscar Hammerstein offering her a $50,000 contract to sing in his opera houses.

McFarland Denounces as Lie Dispatch That "Bunny" Jilted Him

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Allison MacFarland, recently acquitted of wife murder in Newark and now under arrest on a counterfeiting charge, today vehemently denounced as a lie the despatches from Philadelphia to the effect that "Bunny" Miss Florence Bromley had jilted him.

"It is more than a lie," he said, "a deliberate lie. This lie has been concocted by Miss Bromley's parents to discourage me and discourage her. Just as soon as I am able to we will get married. That is sure.

"Why I heard from Miss Bromley as late as yesterday morning. The message was just as endearing, and rang as sincere and true as any assurances I ever received from her.

"My arrest is a gigantic plot started by the disgruntled Newark police because they could not send me on the electric chair."

According to dispatches from Philadelphia Florence Bromley has announced that she is through with MacFarland forever.

35,000 FALL IN BALKAN WAR

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 29.—Thirty-five thousand Turks and Bulgarians have been killed or wounded in the nine days' fighting about Adrianople, according to a telegram received here this afternoon from Bucharest. The message stated that the Bulgarians had captured more than 30,000 Turks.

ATHENS, Oct. 29.—Terrible cruelties are being wrought by Turkish troops in Southern Macedonia upon Christians. Telegrams from the victorious Greek army under King George and Crown Prince Constantine, which is pressing northeastward, relate gruesome stories.

In one action the Turks compelled twenty-five Christian captives to remain upon the firing line until all had fallen, victims of Greek bullets.

Bodies of scores of helpless women and children have been found where they were tortured or butchered by the ruthless Mohammedan soldiery. The Greeks came upon a hut ten miles east of Serrilje containing the mutilated remains of seventeen Christian women.

Greek Catholic priests have been tortured to death and monasteries robbed and burned.

The Greek army of the Epirus has advanced on Janina. Two Turkish divisions are stationed near there and a battle is imminent.

Italo has fallen intermittently for twenty-four hours, causing great discomfort to both armies. Actual distress has been caused to the Turkish soldiers from Asia Minor and the movements of Bulgars has been greatly hampered. Heavy artillery fire has been kept upon the wretched mass around Adrianople where, at places, the mud is from one to two feet deep.

The trophies taken of the Bulgarian include a diamond studded sword of honor presented to Mukhtar Pacha, the son of the Turkish Premier, by Sultan Mohammed V. General Mukhtar Pacha was taken prisoner by the Bulgarians at Kirk Kilisseh.

Turks Refuse to Surrender.

SOFIA, Oct. 28.—"Adrianople must be taken by force. We will not surrender." This was the reply returned today by General Nazim Pacha, commander-in-chief of the Turkish forces, to the demand of Czar Ferdinand that the Turks surrender unconditionally.

It was sent to the Bulgarian camp at Eski Baba after a council of war by General Nazim Pacha, General Abdullah Pacha and other high officers of the Ottoman army in Adrianople and its environs.

Although the Bulgarians now surround the Turkish forces at Adrianople the Ottoman generals have decided to fight to the death to the ultimate hope that reinforcements from Constantinople may arrive in time to attack the flank of the Bulgarian army.

The Bulgarians have commenced destroying the Oriental Railway to prevent the transfer of soldiers from Constantinople on troop trains. The bridge over the Teloeru River has been dynamited.

Fight Probably on Meadows.

When the final battle is fought between the main attacking and defending armies it will probably take place in the meadows eastward and westward from the River Erkene, south of Adrianople. Should a decisive engagement take place there and the Turks be defeated there can be no effective resistance to a general attack on Constantinople.

The Bulgarian army is divided into two great wings, one of which is moving southward on the east side of Adrianople while the other is moving in a parallel line on the west side of the city.

The Bulgars are maneuvering to get between the army under General Nazim Pacha, southeast of Adrianople and the city. With this purpose in view 10,000 Bulgars have been sent across the Maritza River from Karagaca in take up their position northwest of the group of Turkish forts at Kazas.

Servians Advance in Monastir.

BELGRADE, Oct. 29.—Three columns of Servian Cavalry are advancing on Monastir sweeping all before them. The Turks are falling back upon Monastir and Salonika. The Servians seized a great quantity of war materials at Ielip and Kumpilli. Among them were 5,000 khaki uniforms. The country is being laid waste.

Aviator Falls Into Turks' Camp.

STARA ZAGORA, Bulgarian Army Headquarters, Oct. 29.—A Bulgarian aviator was killed today while trying to fly over Adrianople and make maps of the Turkish works. He was using a French monoplane. His motor stopped when he was over the Turkish camp at Fort Yildiz, and the machine fell about 1,500 feet.

Bread Riots in Stamboul.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 29.—Famine is threatened here as a result of the Balkan war. Business is at a standstill, for all the workmen have been pressed into military service and are either at the front or on their way. The government is attempting to provide for the peaceful population of the country, but the drain of the war has proved so heavy that the task has grown beyond the Porte's power.

Bread riots occurred today in the Stamboul section. A squad of Mesopotamian recruits handled the starving women and boys with such forceness that half a dozen were fatally injured.

SAYS DOCTORS OBEYED RULES

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 29.—Dr. George Cook, secretary of the New Hampshire State Board of Medical Examiners, today took the side of the Cheshire County Medical Society and the Elliot City Hospital at Keene on the wrangle in the hospital operating room which resulted in the refusal of hospital physicians to work with Dr. B. T. Moosley of Alstead in operating on twelve-year-old Charles Harold Wright for appendicitis. When the hospital physicians refused to administer ether, with Dr. Moosley in the case, the boy was taken back to his parents' home. The operation was performed, but the boy died.

Dr. Cook said

I do not think there is the slightest possibility of any proceedings in any medical society about the case at Keene. The investigation I made leads me to believe that the staff physicians of the Keene Hospital acted in a perfectly proper manner. The physician who came to the hospital (Dr. A. A. Taft) had a right to do so, and the operation would have been performed if the parents of the child had not insisted, at the last moment, that Dr. Moosley should be called in.

Dr. Moosley was expelled from the Cheshire County Medical Society and, under the society's rules, he could not serve with members of the society. The rules of the hospital require that a member of the hospital staff shall administer ether to a patient.

This would not have cost anything, but on account of the refusal of the family to have any other physician except Dr. Moosley, the operation could not be performed.

The rules of the Cheshire County Medical Society are more stringent than are most of the society regulations.

In Keene all the physicians who do work for the city or county or public institutions of any kind are called "contract" physicians, whereas other cities in the State, the city and county physicians are not considered "contract" doctors and are eligible to membership in the medical societies. The New Hampshire Medical Society has never made a ruling on "contract" doctors, only local ones, like the Cheshire County Society.

SIX JACKIES TEST TOBACCO FOR NAVY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Half-a-dozen sailors at the Brooklyn Navy Yard are to have six weeks of unalloyed bliss, according to an order issued by Secretary of the Navy Meyer today. The department, to test the tobacco to be used in the navy during the coming year, has decided to have the enlisted men make their own decision as to the merits of the different brands. The jackies will receive all the tobacco they want to smoke and chew for the next six weeks.

Mineral Springs Race Meet to Be Resumed

MINERAL SPRINGS, Ind., Oct. 29.—Racing will be resumed at the Mineral Springs track Friday or Saturday. This was the statement of A. F. Knotts, president of the Mineral Springs Jockey Club. The troops that stopped the meet there recently, have been withdrawn, and the officers of the club began preparations for racing.

There are a number of horses still at the track. Purses of from $800 to $500 will be hung up.

The track officials say that Governor Marshall has not stopped racing. The only way in which he can prevent the running they assert is by keeping his troops there all Winter. Nothing but a court order will close the track they assert.

John Gavit, one of the track officials, says the fifteen-day meet will be completed if it takes until next Spring to do it.

PILGRIM A. A. FINED $200

Officials of the Pilgrim A. A. were arraigned in the Roxbury Municipal Court today, before Judge Joseph N. Palmer, charged with conducting public boxing exhibitions and also with holding boxing exhibitions without a license. Charles A. Lombard, treasurer of the club, pleaded not guilty. Judge Palmer, however, found the club officials guilty and fined them $200. They then appealed.

The Pilgrim Club has been conducting boxing shows at the Boston Arena on St. Botolph street since early in the Spring. The club holds a general club charter, granted by the State. This is the third time that it has been arraigned in court. When charges were first brought against the club the Court refused to grant a warrant.

New charges were made on October 15 and the club at that time was fined $400. The case was appealed and will be tried in the Superior Court within a few weeks.

TELL PLANT DIVORCE ROMANCE IN COURT

The news that Mrs. Caroline G. Plant, Boston's noted leader, had secured a divorce from Thomas G. Plant, the millionaire founder of the Plant shoe factory in Jamaica Plain, took almost secondary interest today, to the question of what financial settlement was expected in the case.

The testimony given was remarkable. It told a story like that of "King Cophetua and the beggar maid." According to the evidence, Mr. Plant first met the girl in the case when she was employed as waitress in his private dining room at the factory. She was uncouth and untutored, yet seems to have exerted a strange fascination over the cultured millionaire.

He took steps to have her educated, and planned to marry her as soon as he could secure a divorce, the evidence showed.

Mrs. Plant was the first witness to go on the stand when the case was called.

The name of Miss Katheryn Haberley was first brought into the testimony by Mrs. Florence J. Stoddard, who said she was a private teacher and journalist of Brooklyn, N. Y. She was the client with boss. Mrs. Plant had concluded her testimony by describing how her husband's camp near the Maine-New Brunswick boundary was reached.

Mrs. Stoddard's testimony was even more detailed and interesting than that of Mrs. Plant. Mrs. Stoddard said:

"In August, 1909, I answered an advertisement in a New York paper. I can't recall the exact phraseology, but it ran something like this:

"Wanted—A lady of culture and experience to educate a young woman of neglected education.

"As a result of my answering this advertisement, I received a telephone call. It was a pleasant, gentlemanly voice that I heard. He told me to call at the Murray Hill hotel and I did so, between 5 and 6 that afternoon.

"We had a conversation which lasted several hours. It occurred on August 30, 1909. He said there was a young girl whom he would have me meet in a few days. He said he was a self-made man and told of the success he had achieved. He told me he wished to help a niece of his, whose education had been neglected. He said he had other nieces who had received advantages, but that this one hadn't. And he wished to educate her in preparation for her travels."

Offered Two-Year Contract.

"Is this a photograph of the young lady?" asked counsel for the plaintiff.

"It is," was the reply of the witness. "He told me that he wished to engage me for two years to tutor the girl. I told him I wished to consult friends before coming to any agreement. He said his wife was not in sympathy with the philanthropy.

"I finally agreed to undertake the girl's education and she went to live with me in Brooklyn on September 3, 1909. Plant came to see her several times during the several months that she was with me. On September 17, 1909, he came and remained to dinner. On September 28, 1909, Miss Haberley received a telegram from Plant to go to New York and take her traveling bag. She received letters every day from Plant and answered them. He at our first meeting introduced her as Miss Hadley, and then at my home corrected the name to Haberley.

"On September 30, 1909, Catherine received a telegram from Plant telling her to call him on the phone in Boston, at Jamaica, 201. She left for Boston on the 3 o'clock train, saying that she was going to Boston to a party which her cousin was giving. She did not take any evening dresses, stating that it was to be an informal affair.

She did not return until October 12. After her return she seemed changed and was much more independent. She brought with her a bankbook which she did not know how to use. She said Plant wanted me to teach her how to make out checks and how to use the bankbook.

"Shortly after this I found some pieces of paper in a washbasket. The writing aroused my suspicions and I pieced the fragments together."

This letter from Plant to Miss Haberley was placed in evidence but was not read aloud.

"The contents of this letter," continued Miss Stoddard, "shocked me and I wrote to Plant asking for an explanation of the things that it seemed to imply. He didn't answer my letter, and I wrote to him again, upbraiding him for his obvious attempt to influence and lead astray a young girl. His reply to this was two special delivery letters, one to me and one to the girl. Mine asked for an appointment at the afternoon. Miss Haberley's set the time at the same place at 9 o'clock.

"When I reached the Waldorf and met Plant the girl was there also. Plant declared that he had done nothing wrong and said that he intended to marry Miss Haberley. He stated that he had begun preparations for divorce and that he expected to be a free man by January 1, 1910. He said that he had lived unhappily with his wife for fourteen years and that he thought he now had the right to secure his own happiness. Miss Haberley was very much moved and wept on my shoulder. She asked me not to desert her as she had no other friend."

MRS. THOMAS G. PLANT, WHO WON SUIT FOR DIVORCE

It Happened Today in Divorce Court

Judge Hardy's divorce court today continued to sanuil "love, honor and obey" pledges in brisk fusilion. The uncontested list hasn't been exhausted.

Mrs. Agnes Mahoney, nee Hanson, bulldied ever with grievances against Charles L. Mahoney of Chelsea, better known as "Lem," to whom she was married December 10, 1903. Both are on the stage. Mrs. Mahoney, trim, pretty and vivacious in spite of her indignation and court fright, told Judge Hardy that she made her living as a "singing and dancing comedienne."

Her narrative of marital woes bristled with anecdotes of interrupted banquets, domestic scrimmages in the presence of company and beer baths.

"Did he ever give you any pin money?" asked the court.

"He would condescend in generous moments to give me $1 or $2 which might be called 'pin money,' but I had to pay my own board and buy my own clothes.

"He struck me, and more than was too weak to scold him. A lodger named Sawyer wanted to lick him. My husband went to bed and I had to sit in a chair all night. One time when I prepared a meal for his friends he threw it about and tried to cook himself. Failing, he got sore and took revenge on me.

"He squeezed my neck so hard I couldn't sing. Another time he pulled me out of bed because I wouldn't get up to feed him. I was a healthy, plump girl when I married him, judge. I weighed 155 and now I only weigh 108."

Karl Sawyer, sobriest but polite, gave a graphic recital of the Mahoney matrimonial mix-up.

"He doused her with beer," lisped Karl. "He was positively mean and cruel. I never saw his equal, the wretch. He shoved her against a hot stove and burned her poor arm. I felt like whipping him.

"The night they were married Mrs. Hanson, mother of the bride, who wears a deer, prepared a wedding supper, but the groom went out and didn't return till 2 a. m. He woke us all up. We found poor Agnes huddled and crying in a corner of the hall. She bought the cutest hat, Judge, and he brutalized it to shreds.

Mrs. Mahoney, who has another footlight name, got a decree nisi which deepened her dimples.

Hudson Street Next.

The court was next given over to the Syrian quarter on Hudson street. A swarthy interpreter made it clear to Judge Hudson that Elias Hindey was cruel to Meecheche Hindey. The wife, whose first name sounded like a sneeze when pronounced by the court crier, declared her husband struck her with a club and put her to bed a month. Neighbors fixed the time of her illness by the number of washings they had to do for the wounded woman.

At times the husband got his brother to help kick his wife. Decree nisi.

REGULAR TROOPS IN CUBA MUTINY

HAVANA, Oct. 29.—Revolution is threatened in Santa Clara province as a result of the political unrest. Regular soldiers stationed at Moredazo, a small town on the Cuba railroad in that province, mutinied today and burned three buildings. Senator Espinosa today asked President Gomez to order many of the soldiers removed from that district.

REDMOND SYMPATHY FOR DILLON FAMILY

National Secretary John O'Callaghan of the United Irish League received today a cable message from John E. Redmond, M. P., chairman of the Irish parliamentary party, in which Mr. Redmond sent the deepest sympathy of himself and his colleagues to the widow and family of the late Dr. T. J. Dillon.

DEATHS

MRS. CATHERINE E. GREER, mother of Frank Greer, the champion single sculler oarsman, is dead at No. 9 Jeffries street, East Boston. She was the widow of Andrew Greer and mother of ten children, the six boys all being oarsmen.

FREDERIC VERNON, a prominent French engraver, is dead in Paris, aged eighty-four.

EDGAR TINEL, Belgian composer and director of the Royal Conservatory of Music, is dead in Brussels, aged fifty-eight.

JOHN MULVANEY, keeper of General Grant's tomb, was found dead of heart failure in a little hotel near the tomb in New York.

GEORGE I. WATERHOUSE, one of the best known hotel men in New England, is dead at Fitchburg, aged fifty-three. He was a member of Royal Arch Chapter and Jerusalem Commandery, Knights Templar, the Mystic Shrine, Fitchburg Lodge of Elks, Fitchburg Board of Trade and the Massachusetts Hotel Association.

ASK MORE CARS IN CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge citizens were before the Railroad Commissioners today in support of the petition of the Cambridge Board of Trade for improved service on the lines of the Boston Elevated railway, particularly in East Cambridge, and on Broadway and on Massachusetts avenue, between Central square and Harvard square.

Frederick W. Dallinger, president of the Board of Trade, acted as spokesman for the delegation, and complained that since the opening of the Cambridge subway many of the surface cars formerly running through the city have been taken off, with the result that those operated are very much overcrowded, particularly during the morning and evening rush hours.

Wireless Flashes From New Station Heard at Newport

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 29.—The naval wireless station here heard every dot and dash flashed from the new naval station at Arlington, Va., in its test last night. The waves were so great as to drown out all other radio action.

The radius of the new plant will be about 3,000 miles, when it is in working order. Communication with the Pacific Coast will be attempted only at night for the present, but throughout the day the Secretary of the Navy, at his desk in Washington, will be within instantaneous communication with Key West, Guantanamo, Colon, the naval coaling stations, the Winter manoeuvre grounds and all Atlantic stations.

When the plant is working perfectly and the chain of stations is completed, Washington will be in touch with Hawaii, Samoa, Guam, the Philippines and Pearl Harbor. The complete system will cost about $1,000,000.

LAWSON PICKS OUT WILSON AS WINNER

Thomas W. Lawson has made an election prophecy. Here it is: Governor Wilson will be elected President by a fair margin; the Massachusetts Legislature will not be Democratic; David I. Walsh will be Governor next year and Governor Foss will enter Wilson's Cabinet.

BOSTON WOMAN WILLS LIBRARY TO COLLEGE

ELIOT, Me., Oct. 29.—Beloit College has received a bequest from Mrs. Mary Ripley Goodwin of Boston, including a large collection of valuable oil paintings, engravings, photographs, and a library of 2,500 volumes. The collection makes a new building necessary.

IS YOUR CHILD'S TONGUE COATED?

If Cross, Feverish, Bilious, Stomach Sour, Give "Syrup of Figs" to Clean Its Little Clogged-Up Bowels.

Mother! Don't scold your cross, peevish child! Look at the tongue! See if it is white, yellow and coated! If your child is listless, drooping, won't sleeping well, is restless, doesn't eat heartily or is cross, irritable, out of sorts with everybody, stomach sour, feverish, breath bad; has stomach aches, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is full of cold, it means the little one's stomach, liver and 20 feet of bowels are filled with poisons and foul, constipated waste matter and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

Give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs and in a few hours all the clogged up waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little waste-clogged bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

Brings The Thrill of Home

"Just arrived this minute, Mary. How are the children? * * * * Good! That relieves my anxiety. I really couldn't stop to take off my hat until I called you. * * * * Me? Oh, we had a splendid trip. I felt a little worried about the baby, but now I've heard from you it seems as if I hadn't a care in the world."

Keep in touch with home by telephone. There's a magnetism in the voice that no written word can equal. The cost is a mere trifle when weighed against the satisfaction derived from such a call.

Republican and Bull Moose Party Campaign Notes

Some funny things are being said by the campaigners. Here, for instance, is Representative William A. L. Baxley telling the people of the Fourth Worcester Senatorial District that he is the real choice of the Bull Moose in that territory. Baxley is the Republican candidate for the Senate against Senator William H. Burke of Milford, Democrat. The Progressive party candidate is William Alcott Wylie, also of Milford. It apparently distresses Mr. Baxley to see a third candidate in the field. He hints, as most of the Brand Patters do, at a foul Democratic plot.

Wylie's friends say it doesn't matter what Baxley says. The Wylie people declare that the Fourth Worcester is entitled to be represented in the State Senate by a man who makes his home in the district. Baxley is written down as an Uxbridge man. His political opponents say he belongs in Boston.

* * *

Congressman Augustus Peabody Gardner looms up as the Republican white hope in the present campaign. The Ninth District Congressman, always a fighter, has met both his Democratic and Progressive opponents in joint debate during the campaign. Nothing teaches the Massachusetts Stand Patter a lesson, but if there were more Republican Congressmen in Massachusetts with records like Gardner's, the G. O. P. wouldn't be finding the going quite as tough.

* * *

Russell A. Wood of Uxbridge, the young Progressive party candidate for Secretary of State, continues to criticize Secretary of State Langtry for signing up the lowest bidder, on the State printing contract, quite as if Colonel Langtry had not explained that what he did was done for the best.

* * *

Progressive leaders are doing everything they can to impress upon the members of the new party the necessity of polling more votes for the "head of the ticket." The Progressives have left the Republican party. They are not going back. They are going to do nothing to give aid or comfort to the enemy.

One of the G. O. P. managers whom Bull Moose loyalty to the Bull Moose will speak next Tuesday is James Gilbert Hill of Lowell, campaign manager of John Jacob Rogers of that city. It will be to the everlasting disgrace of Progressives in the Fifth Congressional district if William N. Osgood, their candidate for Congress, fails to get every Progressive vote in the district.

* * *

Congressman Gillett of Springfield having sought to make an issue out of Consolidated River and Harbor bills, his Democratic rival, former City Solicitor William P. McKechnie, points proudly to records that show real activity in that direction on the part of Mr. McKechnie as far back as 1900 and 1901.

* * *

Congressman Ernest W. Roberts of Chelsea, Stand-Patter, will not get the vote of any Ninth District Progressive who takes the trouble to examine Roberts' record in Congress.

* * *

Out in the First Congressional District the Republican candidate, Allen T. Treadway, is "defending his legislative record," according to a Republican in Lee's Springfield Union. That seems to be about the worst of being a G. O. P. candidate this year.

* * *

Patrick M. Loughlin of Gloucester, John Hays Hammond's pal, is advertised up in New Hampshire this week as "Patrick M. Loughlin of Gloucester, personal friend of President Taft."

United States Senator Henry F. Lippitt is boosting the "tariff publicity" end of the Gone Old Party campaign in Rhode Island. Republicans in Worcester are seeking to make political capital over a vacant police lieutenancy. Some of them are beginning to put it up to Mayor David F. O'Connell that the place belongs to a Swedish-American. Discussing this matter today at the Bellevue, a Worcester Democrat declared that there is little doubt that the Mayor intends to promote Sergeant Gustaf Fyrberg, who has been a Worcester policeman for a dozen years.

Mrs. Celia S. White will speak on the Progressive party platform at Codman Square Progressive Headquarters in Dorchester tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. White is a prominent Bull Moose worker and her address will be aimed especially at Dorchester women.

POLITICAL NEWS

Vote for Wilson, Foss Walsh and Other Democratic Candidates

Wilson Pleased with Tour.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 29.—Governor Woodrow Wilson came back from Philadelphia well satisfied with the receptions he got there last night. The first thing he did today was to announce the resignation of Professor Henry Jones Ford on State banking commissioner, and to appoint in his place George Francis Lamonte of Round Brook, N. J. Governor Wilson will speak in Newark tonight.

With reference to Thomas F. Ryan's $5,000 contribution to the Democratic Congressional campaign, the Governor said: "I have no control over the Congressional campaign.

"It is an absolutely distinct thing handled by another set of persons."

After speaking in Newark this evening Governor Wilson will address mass meetings in Montclair and Orange, N. J. Tomorrow morning the Governor will go to Cape May, N. J., speaking there in the morning, at Wildwood in the afternoon, and at Burlington, N. J., in the evening.

Roosevelt Active Again.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Oct. 29.—"I'll be easy today," exclaimed Colonel Roosevelt, as he greeted his stenographer this morning at Sagamore Hill. "We'll rest up for the meeting tomorrow night."

Then the ex-President proceeded to dictate replies to the hundreds of letters and telegrams stacked up on his desk. By noon the Colonel had disposed of 200 messages. Many of them had to do with the political campaign, the ex-President having been put in direct touch with the inside of affairs in his conferences with George W. Perkins and through letters received with the last few days.

From now on the Colonel intends to assume personal charge of the campaign, giving out orders from Sagamore Hill. He feels that, while the newspaper polls are invariably against him and show Wilson to be far in the lead, he still has a chance to win.

Taft Raps Moose Leaders.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—"Some of the most prominent speakers of the third party have not hesitated to declare that the election of Governor Wilson would mean financial disaster to the country. And yet they are working for no other end. From absolutely dependable sources information comes to me that none of the leaders of the third party believes it has the slightest chance of success, and that they realize that a vote for it means a vote for the Democrats. But they are so filled with hatred for the Republican party because it refused to accept their dictation that they are willing to bring disaster upon the whole country, simply to gratify their revenge."

Taft has wrote President Taft to Fred A. Geier, president of the Prosperity League of Ohio, today, just before he left for New York to confer with Chairman Hilles of the Republican National Committee.

O'Gorman to Speak Here.

Senator O'Gorman of New York will be the principal speaker tomorrow night in Symphony Hall at a rally arranged by the Democratic City Committee. Charles Hamlin and Thomas H. Dowd will be the other speakers.

For tonight the Democratic City Committee has arranged rallies at the Emerson School building, on Bennington street, East Boston; at the Hazard Porter School, on Seventh street, South Boston, and at the Charles Sumner School, on Ashland street, Roslindale.

The speakers at the three meetings will include Dudley Malone, assistant corporation counsel of New York; Allen B. Jones of Virginia, Congressmen Peters, Curley and Murray, Dr. John C. Rattigan, William H. Barter, Sheriff Quinn and Edward D. Collins of the Governor's Council.

Parker Praises Governor Foss.

LOWELL, Oct. 29.—At a Democratic rally in Associate Hall here, attended by 1,500 persons, Judge Alton B. Parker of New York was the principal speaker. He said:

"I do not think a manufacturer should be chosen in this district, as he will be liable to work for the corporations. My belief is that the interests of the district will be best conserved by the election of Humphrey O'Sullivan as a member of Congress.

"You have in Governor Foss one of the most earnest men, who has denounced the evil effects of the high tariff and the trusts."

Bryan in Oklahoma.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Oct. 29.—With a speech here, W. J. Bryan completed his tour of Illinois and left for Oklahoma, where he is to make another series of addresses.

At McLeansboro Mr. Bryan said:

"I am willing to sign as true, without looking at it, any statement Republicans make concerning Roosevelt, and any statement Roosevelt's friends make concerning Taft."

Graves Speaks for Wilson.

John Temple Graves of Georgia, in 1908 candidate for Vice-President on the Independence League ticket headed by Thomas L. Hisgen of Springfield, has joined the ranks of Democratic speakers in Massachusetts.

Tomorrow Mr. Graves will speak in Mr. Hisgen's home city of Springfield and on Monday he will speak in Worcester.

Johnson in Connecticut.

Governor Johnson, Colonel Roosevelt's running mate, is in Connecticut today, after speaking in Hildeford, Portland and other cities.

Sidelights on the Democratic State Campaign

Henry C. Rowland, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Ninth district, is making an aggressive campaign. He believes in short speeches, but makes many of them. "I do not believe in long collitch talks," he says. "You have only got to talk to a crowd ten minutes before the voters decide the question of whether you are a fit man to represent them in public office. I am going to Congress from this district."

* * *

One of the workers who from now on will be active in the campaign is Charles B. Strecker of Boston. Mr. Strecker has been assigned to the Walsh auto and will tour the central and western parts of the State. Mr. Strecker will devote his time on the stump to the tariff and David I. Walsh.

* * *

Thomas F. Hoyle, candidate for treasurer in Middlesex county, is a thorough optimist. He says that he will win this year but if he fails, he will again be on the firing line next year.

* * *

"Bill" Newton, a South Boston has subscribed the Foss automobile and is devoting his entire time to helping the Walsh candidacy. He said today: "Foss and Walsh will be elected. Walter will poll a good vote. Charles S. Bird will get about 90,000. Bird and Daniel Coogrove, his running mate, will get within seventy-five per cent, as large a vote as the Democrats will carry eight or ten Congressional districts and may win the whole ticket."

* * *

When the orators start for the Berkshires the scribes will go prepared to eat lunch from their hook cars. A bottle of hot coffee and a supply of sandwiches will go good on a country road, when the nearest restaurant is fifteen miles away.

* * *

"Jerry" Watson appeared at headquarters today resplendent in a new Raw Democrats will carry eight or ten Congressional districts and may win the whole ticket."

* * *

When the orators start for the Berkshires the scribes will go prepared to eat lunch from their hook cars. A bottle of hot coffee and a supply of sandwiches will go good on a country road, when the nearest restaurant is fifteen miles away.

* * *

"Jerry" Watson appeared at headquarters today resplendent in a new suit. Unlike the Governor, "Jerry" is not superstitious concerning clothes in a campaign. The suit is of a small dark and white check. It is the best looking and sportiest looking suit that has been seen at headquarters since the campaign started.

* * *

The textile interests of New Bedford are looking upon the Congress candidacy of Thomas C. Thacher with even more complacency since Mr. Thacher let it be known that nobody need fear that Mr. Thacher favors the closing of the cotton mills. "I now state," says the Democratic Congress candidate in the Sixteenth District, "that I shall not consider myself bound by any caucus decision which in my opinion would work disaster to the industries of New Bedford or this district."

* * *

Harry E. Ward of Greenfield, Democratic candidate for the House in the Third Franklin, tells people that if he is elected to the Legislature he will support that candidate for the United States Senate who is the first choice of the voters of the Third Franklin District. "I will be bound by no pledges," Mr. Ward says, "and I hold allegience to no political machine."

* * *

Democrats in Western Massachusetts declare that Senator Crane's successor should come from out that way and not from Boston, inasmuch as the other Senator belongs in Boston. Massachusetts in Worcester they talk of Congressman John R. Thayer. There are signs that the Thayer movement is organizing. But the Worcester Democrats are not fussy. They will take a man suggested by Springfield rather than come East for Mr. Crane's successor.

* * *

Senator John Mack of North Adams, Democrat, is one of those who appear to be worried by all this talk that a Democratic Legislature might mean Fitzgerald for the United States Senate. "I am a Progressive," Senator Mack has been telling the folks in Pittsfield, "and I could not be anything else. I am pledged to no candidate for the Senate. If I am reelected one of my first acts will be to introduce again the direct primary bill of last year."

* * *

The Democrats of New Bedford would rather like to have Governor Foss come down tonight for the biggest rally of the year in the skating rink. If the Governor fails to "show," he may not be heard in New Bedford during the campaign. This would be a real calamity.

* * *

The country in and around Springfield appears to be the storm centre as the campaign draws to a close. Congressman Underwood and Governor Foss will speak in Springfield Thursday night, Senator Lodge on Friday night and Governor Hiram W. Johnson of California on Saturday night.

DAKOTAN REGRETS LACK OF FUNDS IN CONTEST

By CLEMENT L. POLLOCK.

EAST CAMBRIDGE COURTHOUSE, Oct. 29.—Although looking pale and speaking in a hoarse voice from his long cross-examination, Dakota Dan was cheerful today. He said that he felt confident that he would finally establish tort he is Daniel Blake Russell.

"The only thing that I regret now is that I have not the money to properly prosecute my fight. As a matter of fact I am being fought with my own money—the inheritance of my father that should be mine."

Robert Nason for the Russell estate resumed his questioning of Dakota Dan. Arthur McVey of William R. Scharton's office was present to represent the claimant. Mr. Nason read this testimony:

"Paddle His Own Canoe."

"Did your father ever whip you with a cane?"

"No, sir."

"Did he ever use a horsewhip on you?"

"No, sir."

"Did he ever punish you?

"All he ever did was to pull our ears or to take hold of our arms."

"Did he ever punish you or Willie in any way?"

"He forbade us from going out to play—he would punish us that way."

"Did you ever tell Horace D. Whitemore that when you went home you would tell Willie you had a hard time—that you had run away because your father had whipped you and never whipped him; that you had been a tramp, and that if they didn't receive you, you knew enough to paddle your own canoe?"

"Well," broke in Dakota Dan, "part of that is right. I can paddle my own canoe. The rest are the lies of Whitemore, that detective."

"Did you tell Whitemore the pocketbook your mother gave you had been lost?"

"No; I told him the prayer book had been burnt up."

Dakota Dan interjected that while he was ill in North Dickinson some one went out to his ranch, broke open his trunk and stole some of his property.

Dogged by Whittemore.

"Who was Horace B. Whitmore?"

"One of your detectives, or Almyr, I think."

"What was he trying to do?"

"Rain me out of all I had."

"Did he ever get for you as your attorney?"

"I wanted to come home alone. Whitmore dogged me. He said I'd have trouble at home, and I said I didn't think I would."

"Where did you meet him?"

"In Dickinson. He introduced himself." The same week Dakota Dan met Frank Morton.

"Didn't Morton's cousin live near you in North Dakota?"

"No, I never heard of that before."

"Didn't Whitmore introduce you to Lawyer Troxler in Minneapolis?"

"I don't recall. I was sick. All that is like a dream to me."

Mr. Nason wanted to know if Dakota Dan had not employed Whitmore, and it was brought out that the Dakotan gave him $400.

"What did you give him that money for?"

"I don't know now."

Objection by McNally.

Mr. McVey made a spirited objection to reading what he called incompetent testimony from the former trial. He said that if Whitmore was Dakota Dan's counsel he never should have been called upon to reveal what passed between them.

"That was incompetent then," declared Mr. McVey, "and it is incompetent now."

"Well," said Master Pevey, "I'll admit it and save your exception."

Dakota Dan testified that he wanted to come home to Melrose in 1907 and in 1905, but Mrs. Russell did not want him to come.

"Did you ever have the hay fever?"

"Yes, but not at home."

"Did you have it before you left home?"

"No, I had something like ague in Michigan."

"Did you pack your clothing before you left home?"

"No, I don't think I did. I talked some."

"With whom were you talking?"

"My mother."

"Talking about your clothing?"

"Yes, I told her I thought I would not take them. She said she would attend to that. She was to send them to me."

"Anything said about where she would send them?"

"I was to let her know?"

"How?"

"I'd write to her and Willie. Nothing was said as to where I was going."

POISON IN THREE LINDLOFF BODIES, DOCTOR TESTIFIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Poison was found in the bodies of a son and daughter and the husband of Mrs. Louise Lindloff, crystal gazer, charged with poisoning her son, Arthur, and who, the prosecution asserts, predicted the deaths of three members of her family, according to Dr. Walter S. Haines. He testified in the trial which was resumed here today, that he found between three and four grains of a mineral poison, enough to cause death, in the body of Arthur Lindloff, and the same thing in fatal quantities in the bodies of William Lindloff, one of Mrs. Lindloff's husbands, and Alma Lindloff, her daughter. He said he had analyzed the powder in a box said to have been found in Mrs. Lindloff's house and found it to contain 50 per cent. mineral poison.

'DUBIOUS OUTLOOK FOR REPUBLICANS,' CUSHING ADMITS

Speaker Grafton Cushing admits, in an interview, that the Massachusetts situation is dubious from a Republican standpoint. He is quoted as saying:

From reports I have received all over the State I am satisfied that there is an imminent danger of Democratic control. Whether or not the Democrats shall control can only be settled by the votes of the members of the Progressive party.

The situation is dubious from a Republican standpoint unless the Progressives recognize that the third party movement makes no complaint of conditions in this State.

The Style Exposition

an instantaneous success

Yesterday and today we were the recipients of congratulations from all sides upon the charm and comprehensiveness of the style demonstration. Many of our visitors expressed pleased surprise—not a few frankly stating that the exposition was far beyond anything they had imagined. Some were kind enough to say it was the best style show yet seen in Boston, and compared it favorably with the much-talked-of New York events of a similar nature.

We found the spacious fifth floor all too small to accommodate those who came to view the magnificent collection of Paris original and Paris inspired gowns, wraps, frocks, suits, coats and millinery. The Paris influence is distinctly apparent in all these models from the dainty little dancing frocks of modest price to the exquisite evening gowns from the ateliers of famous French couturiers.

Among the Paris contributors are Bechoff-David, Drecoll, Callot, Cheruit, Paquin, Paul Poiret and others of equal note.

Millinery creations from:

Georgette, Camille Roger, Jeanne Lanvin, Caroline Reboux, Louison, Talbot, Evelyn Veron, Maison Lewis and others.

Vieing in interest with these marvels of artistic genius are the splendid reproductions and adaptations by clever American dressmakers and milliners.

TO LAY EAST BOSTON STONE

Though no time has been set for laying the cornerstone of the new courthouse and police station in East Boston, plans are on foot for the ceremony. Former Alderman Thomas J. Giblin, Democratic nominee for the House in Ward 1, is canvassing the district to enlist the co-operation of the people in making the day a holiday. He will confer with Mayor Fitzgerald and the City Council.

A feature of the exercise will be the insertion of a metal box in the corner stone, containing yarly records of inhabitants of the district, old and new coins, copies of newspapers, photographs of the members of the city government who voted for the appropriation that made possible the erection of the building, names of clergyman of all denominations in the district, present members of the House and Senate.

The box was recently removed from the cornerstone of the old courthouse in the district and contained old newspapers, coins, etc. These will be put back in the box with the new articles.

The building will be three stories high. It will be constructed of Milford pink granite and brick, with white mortar joints and limestone trimmings. Harrison H. Atwood is the architect.

The Crime of Waste

You've seen lots of people who, though they eat a-plenty, do not grow strong or healthy.

They waste their food because they do not assimilate it.

"It is not the food we eat that keeps us alive, but what we assimilate."

H-O Oatmeal is one of the most readily assimilated of foods.

It is the one oatmeal fit to eat after only 20 minutes of cooking by you, because it is the one oatmeal first cooked over two hours at the mill.

When you eat H-O after cooking it 20 minutes you get all the nourishment possible out of the oats. There is no waste about it.

"STAND PAT" WEEKS IS WORRIED

Congressman, With 13th Rebuilt to Order, Finds John Mitchell Making Strong Fight.

Notwithstanding all that was done for him at the State House a few months ago —when they pulled the State apart to make sixteen Congressional districts where heretofore there have been but fourteen— John W. Weeks of Newton and Boston, wealthiest of New England Congressmen, and one of the most eminent Stand Patters, is in a state closely approximating terror as Election Day draws near.

For, while Congressman Weeks on the stump is nightly saying the kindliest of things of his Democratic rival for the office—the never-defeated John J. Mitchell of Marlboro—paid agents of the Newton statesman are busy everywhere in the district at "personal" work.

Two of these paid agents—one of them an employe of the Weeks brokerage house at No. 60 Congress street, who lives at Winthrop Beach—made their appearance yesterday in and around South Framingham.

And what was done for John W. Weeks at the State House, when the re-districters re-districted?

O, not very much—except that the most heroic efforts put forth in anybody's interest, by the Congressional re-districting committee, were put forth with the purpose of saving John W. Weeks' hide in the great contest to be decided by the people next Tuesday.

Please observe—and please observe, most particularly, you who find yourselves in the NEW Thirteenth Congressional District.

The Jolly Re-Districteers.

Two years ago, Congressman Weeks was given the surprise of his political career when a young Boston attorney who lives in Brookline—Daniel J. Daley, protege of Sherman L. Whipple, Esq.,—conducted a strenuous campaign and polled 14,000 votes to the 19,037 rolled up by Weeks.

Daley was beaten by 4,341 votes, but never before, since Weeks began being elected to Congress in 1905, had anybody got even within hailing distance of him. Occasionally he had waltzed away to Congress without going through even the motions of a canvass.

And so it became positively necessary, from the point of view of John W. Weeks and his assistant Stand Patters, that, in building a new Weeks district, every bit of doubtful territory should be cut away from him.

There were thirty-six towns and one city in the district wherein Daley gave Weeks an annoyingly close fight.

Twenty-one of these thirty-six towns have been cut out of it.

And were these twenty-one towns "Daley" towns?

Why ask? Of course they were! Weeks led Daley, in the 13th district, by 4,341 votes.

But in the twenty-one towns which have been taken out of the district, Daniel J. Daley led John J. Weeks by 8,063 votes.

Do you see the point?

These are the towns which two years ago took part in the Daley-Weeks contest

JOHN J. MITCHELL.

* JOHN J. MITCHELL

—to the great annoyance of John W. Weeks, Stand Patter—and which, just for that, find themselves today in somebody else's Congressional district:

Avon, Blackstone, Braintree, Canton, Dedham, Foxboro, Holbrook, Hopedale, Hopkinton, Hyde Park, Meadon, Milford, North Attleboro, Norwood, Randolph, Sharon, Stoughton, Upton, Watertown, Westwood and Weymouth.

When all of this had been done, however, to make things "surtin sure" for John W. Weeks, it became necessary to take in some other towns. Each of the Congressional districts MUST have a population of at least 205,000, and the Weeks district—with the twenty-one naughty towns sent about their business—was barely half big enough.

Studying the Figures.

So they tacked on the Brighton ward of Boston (25), Democratic two years ago by less than 700, and they picked up two cities and seven towns from the old FOURTH District, wherein John Mitchell had lost the LONG term to Wilder by 130 votes, but had beaten Wilder for the SHORT term.

Today, made up in part of the Twelfth District of two years ago, the Fourth District of two years ago and the Tenth District of two years ago, the John W. Weeks district is Republican by only 1,821 votes.

So that John W. Weeks has jumped from the frying-pan almost upon the red-hot coals; and so John W. Weeks is worried as he has never been worried before.

The NEW Weeks district is called the Thirteenth. These are the towns and cities that make it up, and the votes of two years ago:

	Dem.	Rep.
Boston	1,569	2,278
Brookline	211	1,000
Framingham	1,000	1,000

Totals	16,442	14,621

Republican majority, 1,821.

Consider the Bull Moose.

Considering, which, naturally, it wants also to be remembered that the Progressive Party is likely to play a prominent part in the decision, that the Progressives have a candidate for Congress in the person of George A. Flot of Waltham, and that at least two of the big centres in the district—Waltham and Brookline—are simply alive with Progressive sentiment. Both of these places were represented by Progressives in the Legislature,

Weeks, Though Kindly on the Stump, Has Paid Agents Going Through the District.

White of Brookline, and Turner of Waltham, before the Progressive Party, as such, was even thought of.

Some of these Progressives are being coaxed to "take it out by voting for Roosevelt and let it go at that," but John W. Weeks voted all the way with the "Joe" Cannon organization.

The Progressive movement in Congress had its foundation in opposition to Cannonism.

And John W. Weeks voted for the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, which fanned the spark of Cannonism into the fire which will destroy the Stand Pat crowd if, indeed, it does not wipe out the entire G. O. P.

There have been indications within the past few days that Weeks will not depend so much upon his oratory this year, as the activity of the young men who are going about the district for him. In every town in the district, Democratic leaders and friends of John Mitchell have been warned to keep an eye upon the activity of these young men.

Weeks Voted for Cannon.

Today the best opinion of unprejudiced observers throughout the district is that John W. Weeks is losing, and that progressive sentiment—progressive sentiment in both the old parties—is responsible for it.

No Progressive car vote for Weeks.

Weeks belongs to and typifies the crowd that has brought the Republican party where it is today. The Progressive movement in Massachusetts will be a failure if Weeks makes his escape to Congress.

Weeks' votes in Congress, as a rule, have been cast against the popular measure, when he has voted at all. He shows up strongest, however, as a dodger. In many cases he is either "not voting" or his response has been "present."

Weeks voted for Cannon.

Weeks voted against the Farmers' Free List, repealing the duties on agricultural implements, etc.

Weeks was "not voting" on the resolution for an amendment to the Constitution providing for the election of United States Senators by vote of the people.

And Weeks was "not voting" on the Sherwood service pension bill.

And Weeks was "not voting" on the passage of the free sugar bill.

And Weeks was "not voting" on a resolution to investigate the Money Trust.

And Weeks was "not voting" on the resolution of impeachment of Robert W. Archbald.

Weeks voted against a bill providing for injury risks in cases of indirect employment.

And on the question of passing the wool bill over the veto of President Taft, Mr. Weeks voted "No."

Mitchell's Record.

Mitchell voted to amend the rules of the House and against Cannon and Cannonism.

Mitchell voted for all labor and all progressive legislation during that memorable session.

Mitchell, in the State Senate of 1907, was present at every session and recorded on every measure; total roll calls, 140.

Mitchell, in the State Senate of 1908, was present at every session and recorded on every measure; total roll calls, 215.

Mitchell, in the House, introduced a bill increasing from $5,000 to $10,000 the penalty against railroads and street railways for fatal injuries to passengers. This bill became a law.

Mitchell introduced a bill for the election of United States Senators by the people.

Mitchell introduced the anti-Shoe Machinery Trust bill, which became a law.

Mitchell voted for the overtime bill for women and minors, which became a law.

Mitchell voted against the merger of the Boston & Maine with the New Haven Railroad.

CAPT. LEONARD OLSEN TRIED FOR ASSAULT

Captain Leonard Olsen of the coal barge Annie of the Eastern Coal & Coke Company, accused of assault upon Charles E. Ridgeway, one of the crew, was place don trial today before Judge Morton in the United States District Court. The trial was hastened by the illness of Ridgeway, who was treated at a New Bedford Hospital for concussion of the brain. Several doctors who examined Ridgeway testified for the government.

STRICKLAND FOR PARCELS CENTRE

Daniel B. Strickland of the Shepard solidated parcel delivery service would handle the delivery problem for the downtown merchants and would relieve congestion as well. He says:

There are about twenty-five dry goods and department stores and stores of a kindred nature located in Boston proper. The aggregate number of parcels which these united stores have for delivery per annum is in round numbers about 10,000,000. The number of express companies calling from two to four times per day at the average store is approximately fifty. Those making single stops fluctuate from one-half to three times that number.

Added to this number is upwards of 125 to 175 wagons belonging to the stores, so that the number in actual use might be approximated at between 350 and 400 wagons that are daily, yes hourly, congregated in the already congested part of Boston.

The waste of time due to this congestion and represented entirely by the time going to and from the delivery room of the different stores, costs the merchants in the 300 working days of the year approximately 225,000 lost hours, which at 22½ cents per hour per man and 10 cents per hour per horse represents an annual loss of $73,125, to which figure may be added that of wear and tear, depreciation on wagons, the small sum of 5 cents per hour, or $11,250 more, making a grand total for time lost in the congested part of the city of the sum of $84,375 per annum.

This condition can be largely overcome by the consolidation of the service. All the merchants and as many of the express companies as it may be mutually agreed upon uniting in one grand body or corporation, building a large receiving and distributing station, handy to the central part of the city.

That large motor trucks with sufficient carrying capacity to do the work of a large number of the small wagons be used; these vans to travel on schedule time, the merchants to know just when they are due to arrive upon the scene and afford every facility for the prompt loading of vans and the getting away from their delivery doors. These vans will be at a great deal faster speed than the average horse-drawn vehicle, go to the receiving and distributing station and unload their baskets on a large circular platform.

In the outlying districts, such as the Newtons, Waltham, Cambridge, Medford, etc., relay stations would be advisable and the merchandise carried by large vans to the latter places would be turned over to the smaller wagons for distribution in the towns mentioned.

WEBSTER BOY LOSES LEG STEALING RIDE

WEBSTER, Oct. 29.—Henry Champagne's right leg was amputated above the knee in the Boston & Albany freight yard today when a companion passed him from an engine on which they were stealing a ride. Champagne, who is fourteen, was picked up by train hands, placed in a special train and rushed to St. Vincent's Hospital, Worcester.

WOMAN FOUND TIED AND SLAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Miss Sophie G. Springer, twenty-nine, daughter of Mrs. O. H. Springer, a Baltimore widow, was found murdered, her arms and legs bound with a rope, her skull crushed, a chloroformed handkerchief stuffed in her mouth and her body wrapped in a blanket, in an Indiana avenue rooming house early today by William R. Wharthe, who accompanied her from the Eastern city three weeks ago and to whom, according to his own story, he was to have been married tomorrow.

Charles D. Conway, said to be a high diver, and his wife, who also is known as Beatrice Riall, and May Moute, a variety actress, who roomed in the same apartment with and who had been befriended by Wharthen, are being sought by the police in connection with the crime.

The body of Miss Springer was found on the bed in the room occupied by them. The couple had been in the house during the evening, but no trace of them has been found since the discovery of the body.

YALE MEN TO GIVE "FRUITS OF CULTURE"

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Oct. 29.—The Yale Dramatic Association announces that it will produce Tolstoi's "Fruits of Culture" as this year's play. As it is impossible to carry the entire cast of thirty on the Christmas trip, some change will be made in the text to prepare an acting version.

50-HOUR WEEK IS WON BY MACHINISTS

Frank Jennings, business agent of Machinists' Union No. 264, today reported that fourteen of the largest machine shops in the Greater Boston district voluntarily had agreed to grant their 800 employes the fifty-hour week demanded by that organization. In all instances the concession has been secured without any reduction of wages, although two of the shops have given their employes an eight-hour day straight.

Famous Berlin Specialist Praises Consumption Remedy

Dr. Hugo Tausig Has a Good Word for Preparation Lately Brought to America.

Less than two years ago a Swiss preparation, called Sirolin, was first brought to America. This preparation had become quite famous abroad as an aid in treating diseases of the lungs.

Dr. Hugo Tausig of Berlin speaks of it as follows: "I have found that Sirolin, even in the absence of the dietetic-hygienic method of treatment which is so important nowadays, produced such beneficial results that I am accordingly now ranked as the leading remedial agent in the treatment of lung affections in the treatment of chronic bronchial catarrh.

This faith in Sirolin has been borne out here by its wonderful success in this country and sufferers from diseases of the lungs have found great relief by its use.

Information about Sirolin can be secured in this country from the Sirolin Co., 228 West Broadway, New York City.

Leading Drug Stores and all leading druggists are recommending and distributing Sirolin with considerable success.

HORACE FOGEL MAKES DENIAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—A general denial of the charges brought by the National League against Horace Fogel, president of the league's Philadelphia club, in the hearing on October 17 are contained in a letter received from Fogel by President Lynch of the National League.

Fogel's letter expressed defiance of the right of the National League to try the case, the alleged star witness and the National League officials could not be made to reply would not be made public. Number 26, who the league will call to give the Philadelphia baseball magnate a beating.

One of the charges against Fogel is that he has been responsible for the National League's refusal to allow the Baltimore club to enter the National League. Fogel denied this charge and that Dr. Hall and other backers of the Baltimore club were working in the interest of the New York club. Fogel further charges that Lynch "fixed" for the New York club to win the pennant in the latter of 1912. Fogel should be ever able to prove such charges as these is a question. How does Fogel say in the face of such serious charges as these? Mr. Lynch was asked.

"He doesn't attempt to explain that at all," was the reply. "He merely makes a general denial of that and the other charges and then declares the National League has no jurisdiction in the matter of trying him for his alleged misdeeds."

Let Resinol stop your skin-trouble

Have you suffered for weeks, months or even years with eczema or some other itching, burning, unsightly eruption? Have you tried treatment after treatment in vain, and, perhaps, given up in despair? Thousands whose skins are now clear have gone through this same experience. At last they tried Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. The soothing, healing, antiseptic Resinol balsams stopped the itching instantly and soon all trace of the disease was gone. Why don't you let Resinol stop your skin-trouble, too?

Itching eczema on hand 10 years

Boston, Mass., June 8, 1912 "About ten years ago I became afflicted with eczema on my right hand, first the skin became scaly, then large cracks in the palm and between the fingers, at times bleeding, the skin peeling up rough and dry, intense itching and burning, and most painful. I had tried all the advertised remedies, with no good result. About three months ago I bought a jar of Resinol Ointment and a cake of Resinol Soap, and from the first application I got relief. I have used only two jars of Resinol Ointment, and my hand is as well as ever. I am now recommending it and my wife's sister is using it with good results." (Signed) Mrs. W. A. McDowell, E. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me of those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

Murrayville, Ill.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a very bad case of female trouble and it made me a well woman. My health was all broken down, the doctors said I must have an operation, and I was ready to go to the hospital, but dreaded it so that I began taking your Compound. I got along so well that I gave up the doctors and was saved from the operation."—Mrs. CHARLES MOORE, R. R. No. 3, Murrayville, Ill.

A Thrilling Story of "The Great White Way"

BROADWAY JONES

Based on George M. Cohan's Famous Play Now Running in New York

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

Copyright, 1912, by George M. Cohan

PART I.—(Continued)

By BERTRAND BABCOCK

THERE was again a merciful interval which was hidden by the outspread skirts of the women. Then, finally, Mrs. Gerard was led to her place, while, calm and alert, at her side stood Broadway Jones, waiting for order to be restored.

In response to his gestures the company found, if not their old seats, new ones, which they drew as near to Mrs. Gerard's as possible.

Then at last Broadway spread out his arms in a gesture for silence. He got it immediately. He sat down and a young lawyer, a friend, took his place.

"My friends," said he, "we have seen many things together, have shared many experiences. Now we're going to share a great happiness. Our guest I may well say our guest of honor, Mrs. Gerard, begs to announce her engagement to marry Mr. Jackson Jones."

At first there was only an astonished ripple, to be succeeded a moment later by bursts of laughter. This in its turn was followed by a blending of softer merriment, the mingling of congratulations and polite sprightliness when people begin to reflect that after all this might be one of those "punches" with which the name of Broadway Jones had been associated.

But excitement unbounded returned when from the far end of the room came a piece of the grotesque, from which even the most thoughtless might have drawn a sinister shade. A white-haired man, with a champagne glass in his hand, arose and waved it aloft. He was recognized as an intimate of the Gerard family, and of the age precisely of Mrs. Gerard's second husband, that is to say, of her own age. His hoary head brought into striking relief the great difference in the ages of the pair whose "happiness" had just been announced.

"A health to the bride, a health to the bride!" he shouted.

Then at a signal from him, repeated by the pallid Broadway Jones, files of waiters swiftly appeared with great magnums of champagne, corked in huge silver pails. Under the deft efforts of the serving men the foaming wine flowed in unrestrained rivers.

Then began the maddest period of the night, which justified all of the precautions of Monsieur Henri. Upon an improvised dais, made by heaping chairs upon chairs and covering all with Oriental rugs, they set Broadway Jones and his antique divinity, while they crowned them with chaplets made from the flowery table decorations.

It was a season of hilarious frenzy, and as gradually the torrents and cascades of wine swept away the coherence of speech, words lost their meaning, their sound, and became merely so many laughs, so that in the end the chief sign of merriment fussed alone from every mouth. These smiling, became but a single vibration which made to tremble the window panes, and seemed to send out over the city an intangible, menacing radiation whose root was not in sanity.

It was 5 o'clock in the morning when twenty grave but mustard-legged youths, whistling the wedding march from Lohengrin, escorted to his home Broadway Jones, still crowned with flowers and weeping and laughing convulsively in turn.

A Friend's Effort.

CLOSE to the hour at which Robert Wallace had left Broadway's dinner, a certain artistic personage connected with Sperry's, but whose official title was not press agent, had gone to one of Sperry's telephones. He had called six or seven numbers, among these 2000 Beekman, 4000 Beekman and 2200 Beekman. Soon after his series of conversations several keen-eyed young men were watching the scene in the private dining room from corners of hallways and balconies.

So it was that the next morning Wallace, in an idle moment after closing a contract, read a fairly accurate account of what had occurred at the now famous dinner after he had left. Long as he had known Broadway Jones, the "stories" astounded him. Like many of the guests of the previous night, he had thought that here was merely another of the famous "punches." The next moment he had put the joking possibilities aside and was certain that Broadway was out of his senses. He finished by not knowing what to think and took the subway to the house which Jones had rented at the commencement of making his name.

Rankin, the butler, had read the papers, too, but he had little to add to what Wallace already knew. He had admitted Jones in the morning and had been told that as the day was Thursday Broadway was not to be called until Saturday.

Wallace sent Rankin to dig out Wallace, the butler reported back that he had aroused Broadway, the latter had called for the newspapers and a whiskey sour, and was even then dressing.

While in a bitter state of mind Wallace sat waiting, there was an agitated ring of the doorbell.

"If it's a newspaper reporter tell him that Mr. Jones is out of town," ordered Wallace.

A few moments later Mrs. Gerard pushed past Rankin into the room, her traces of the precious evening upon her heavily ronged cheeks.

"Tell Mr. Jones I'm here and waiting to take him for a spin through the park," she said to the butler. "Say to him that it's a glorious morning."

Then seeing Wallace sitting gloomily in his chair, she wished him "Good morning" to which he responded shortly and gloomily.

"You didn't wait for the announcement last night," said she. "What do you think of it?" Then, as he didn't reply, "I say, what do you think of our engagement?"

"What do you think of it?" caustically.

Again came the high falsetto which Mrs. Gerard used on the precious evening, as emotion of any sort seemed to send her voice squealing into an upper register—one that showed the wear of age.

"I'm the happiest girl in New York," she piped.

At this biting burst of laughter she drew herself up, but he assured her that his mirth was caused by "something that happened years ago." She was relieved as "mother always called her a silly child."

"Your mother! Is your mother still alive?" burst from him in astonishment.

"Why, of course," answered Mrs. Gerard. "She had ten children—five boys and five girls. I'm the youngest of the girls. The baby, they always called me."

"I suppose most of the boys are still going to school?" satirically.

"Oh, no; they are all married."

"Small geniuses."

"Oh, I don't know! I married my first husband when I was eighteen. That's twenty long years ago."

Mrs. Gerard had said this bravely, but there was an astounded pause in the part of Wallace, at the end of which he exclaimed:

"You don't mean to tell me that you're—"

She put one withered finger to her artificially reddened lips.

"Sh," she almost whispered. "That's only between us; I don't tell my age to everyone. How old are you, Mr. Wallace?"

Not a muscle of his face moved as he replied:

"I'll be twelve in October."

A bewildered look crossed the old creature, futuous face of the triple widow. Finally she laughed.

"Oh, I see," she said, "you want me to add about twenty to that."

Wallace bounded from his chair while for a moment he strode toward the door at a pace whose intensity showed his feeling. Then he went back to the woman sitting in a chair.

"Mr. Jones said about thirty to your own," he snapped.

"What!" gasped the woman, confronting him as she got up. "How dare you, sir?" Do you know what you're saying?"

But the torrent had started. Its words fairly foaming and tumbling over one another, Wallace went on:

"Your engagement is all wrong—insane. The idea of a woman of your age imagining for a moment that this boy is fool enough to mean such a thing. You're a sensible woman. Figure it out for yourself. Why, you're over twice his age."

"What!"

"He's only twenty-five."

"You're a brute!"

"I'm your friend. I'm trying to save you from being made the laughing stock of the town. Jackson doesn't love anything but a good time. Why, he doesn't take anything seriously—especially women. To my knowledge he's been engaged to thirty of them during the last two years."

"I don't believe you," snapped Mrs. Gerard.

"Very well, go ahead, it's no affair of mine," came from Wallace, as he made a gesture of helplessness.

"And you'll do well to attend to your own business, Mr. Wallace," she retorted shrilly.

HE paused, panting with the exertion of his loud speech. West became even more subdued.

"Why didn't you explain that yesterday?" he asked, more in reproach than suspicion.

"I wouldn't explain it today if it wasn't that Miss Tyler is here," he gasped between. "Don't you realize that these two young people are engaged and that you are throwing a barrier up between them? Why don't you ask Mr. Tyler where he got his money? Why don't you arrest every one in New York and make them explain where they got their money? Did you think that money was counterfeit?" he demanded, in a voice of the most profound pity.

"Yes," replied West, but he winced.

"Can't you tell?" He turned his scorn on Hammond. "I thought you were the expert of the service, Mr. Hammond?"

"I've never been fooled yet," was the curly response.

"I've heard that," snorted Mr. Ives. "Then you can be quite sure Mr. Jones is in a second." He gave the expert the other of the two bills he had taken from his pocket. Hammond barely more than glanced at it before he handed it back.

"I know this issue," he said.

"I'm satisfied with my own judgment," snapped West.

"Of course you are!" agreed Mr. Ives in a remarkably exasperating tone. "I'll tell you how you made your mistake. You figured Mr. Baird's sudden rise to prosperity and his association with the as meaning only one thing—that we working together. You couldn't understand how he had sold $10,000 worth of stock in one day—but you had the checks to prove it. It is surprising remarkable to find $50,000 in a Wall street office."

"But he told me he hadn't discovered gold," protested West, really ashamed of his mistake.

"He must have discovered something," retorted Mr. Ives. "People don't give up money for nothing. If that is counterfeit money your idea is that Mr. Baird used a device to pass it. Has he? Come now! I've let you have your own way long enough! If you think that money is counterfeit—keep it! If you believe it is genuine, return it!"

West looked at Mr. Ives a moment then he turned. "Get out of here!" he growled. He handed the whole package of money over to its owner with as good a grace as possible.

"All right, Walker, old pal," he said, with a smile of attempted jauntiness. "Here it is!"

"Thank you!" said Mr. Ives, coldly, running his fingers through it. West watched him and shook his head.

Stock Prices; Financial News

Sharp Decline in New York Market at Opening. Boston Unchanged.

STATE STREET, Oct. 29.—The local stock market opened quiet and steady this morning. With the exception of Amalgamated Copper and Butte & Superior, which declined slightly, the prices were unchanged from last night's closing. Trading was very dull and mostly in small lots. At the end of the first hour the market was irregular, some of the prices being:

Granby 61⅜, up ⅝; Butte & Superior 44⅝, off ⅛; American Zinc 31, unchanged; Calumet & Arizona 76⅝, off ⅛; North Butte 34¼, off ⅛; Wolverine 72, unchanged.

New York Market.

Canadian Pacific slumped 3 points at the opening of the New York Stock Market today, being the weakest issue on the list. Nearly all stocks were off, but after twenty minutes trading there was a rally. Other losses were United States Steel common ⅝, Erie preferred ¼, Baltimore & Ohio ⅛, Atchison ¼, Lehigh Valley ⅝, Union Pacific ⅝, Southern Pacific ¼ and Southern Railway ⅝. United States Steel preferred was up ¼. Amalgamated Copper after opening unchanged gained ⅛. Pennsylvania opened ⅛ higher and immediately gained ⅛ additional. Reading, which sold ex-dividend 1½ per cent, began at 171⅛, and went to 171⅝. There was considerable foreign selling, because of the troubled diplomatic waters. There was market talk abroad that Russia may be dragged into the Balkan war.

The New York Curb was heavy.

James J. Hill Optimistic.

James J. Hill, sole survivor of this country's veteran railroad builders, in a short interview yesterday on business in general said:

"Business conditions are good. The big volume of business created by natural conditions is here and the problem of the roads in the Northwest is to take care of it. Great Northern is having no difficulty in handling its business, but some of the roads will encounter trouble. Great Northern is moving 1,000,000 bushels of wheat a day."

Mr. Hill, when asked whether he thought the better times would continue a year or more, said:

"The country has been slowly recovering from the effects of 1907 and in the last few years merchants, manufacturers and farmers have had to curtail in many lines. But there is a better feeling now, and merchants and jobbers report satisfactory conditions. Farm lands are in excellent shape, which speaks well for another good crop next year. The future depends largely upon what the natural resources of the country can furnish and how they can be handled."

Mr. Hill said that he had little interest in politics, but the general opinion in the Northwest seemed to be that President Taft was gaining ground.

Southern Railway Finances.

On February 1 next $10,000,000 5 per cent. notes of the Southern Railway mature. It seems to have been generally expected that there would be some new financing to take care of these notes at maturity, but we understand that it has been virtually decided to pay off half of the notes at maturity in cash, and to extend for a period of either one or two years the remaining $5,000,000.

Southern Railway should be able to easily pay off $5,000,000 of these notes at maturity without incurring new obligations, on June 30 last the road had $10,377,000 of cash on hand, $22,040,000 of current assets and $12,855,000 of current liabilities, leaving a working capital of $9,184,000.

Business along the lines of the Southern Railway continues to expand. Gross earnings are showing an increase averaging between $7,000 and $8,000 per day.

Foreign Financial News.

London copper warrants opened easy with spot 10s. lower at £75⅛ and futures 7s. 6d. lower at £75⅝.

The Von Rheinen banking firm of Reichenbach in Silesia has failed.

The tone of the London market at 2 p. m. was unsteady and scattered liquidation occurred. Domestic issues drooped and London undergrounds turned flat. American shares opened heavy and were irregularly lower. Canadian Pacific was off 1⅞, and Amalgamated Copper and Baltimore & Ohio were off a point apiece.

London banks are believed to be financing a considerable part of the recent European sales of securities. Foreigners and mines were irregular, partly on account of the embarrassments reported in Germany. Rio Tintos was ⅝ lower at 72⅜.

New York Cotton Market.

Support from spot interests and better cables then due, caused the New York cotton market to open higher today, prices ranging from unchanged to 4 points up. There was a noticeable scarcity of cotton in the gin and shorts, who were trying to replace cotton sold last week, had to bid prices up sharply. Futures and spot in Liverpool were firm.

The regular admission fee to new members of the New York Cotton Exchange has been increased from $500 to $1,000 by vote of 107 to 35. The change takes effect immediately.

L. G. Fairbanks, advertising manager of the Diamond Rubber Company, is in Boston, pushing a campaign in the interests of the Diamond safety tread tire. He is the guest of L. K. Hittenhouse, New England manager of the Diamond Rubber Company's branch.

"The problem of preventing skidding is in finding a way of getting rid of the slippery film so that a tire can get a firm grip on the dry, clean pavement," says Mr. Fairbanks. "You will notice the cross and parallel bars on the Diamond safety tread tires. There are two series of straight bars which may be compared to the straight piece of rubber which is now used to dry windows after washing. The safety bars of the tire, in fact, is a tire with a large number of squeegees attached to its tread and these squeegees work exactly like the window squeegee.

"The Diamond safety tread tire prevents skidding by preventing the beginning of the skid or slide on either the forward or sidewise skid. The first bar to touch the pavement cleans away the dangerous film and the bar behind finds a dry, clean surface to grip. The arrangement of the bars positively prevents water, mud or grease slipping between the bars and serving as a lubricant for the bars following."

The Frank Billion Motor Car Company of South Boston is the latest to enter the motor industry. It will build a truck designed by Victor A. Hodgdon. The Railroad Policy of Massachusetts Is Settled, Mr. Walker, and the People Intend It Shall Stay Settled

Mr. Joseph Walker, the Republican candidate for Governor, attacks Governor Foss for his opposition to the further encroachments of the New Haven monopoly. Mr. Walker charges that the Governor, by his opposition to the program of the New Haven Railroad, has delayed railroad development in this State.

Mr. Walker says: "Governor Foss knows that there cannot be efficient railroad service until great physical improvements have been made. The Governor knows as a business man and as a financier that these improvements cost immense amounts of money, and that this money can only be had from the investing public, and he knows that the money will not be forthcoming until the railroad policy of this Commonwealth is definitely settled."

Mr. Walker believes that the railroad policy will not be definitely settled until the New Haven Railroad is allowed to do with property in this Commonwealth and with our laws all it wants to do.

The New Haven Railroad now wants to consolidate with the Boston & Maine, and it wants to own all the street railways from Worcester and including Worcester westward to our uttermost border. Governor Foss and the Democratic party will not consent to any such a program.

Mr. Walker is wrong from any angle from which he chooses to view this question. If the railroad policy WERE definitely settled by giving the New Haven Railroad all it wants our condition would be WORSE, not better, for the purpose of the present New Haven management is not the development of a legitimate railroad enterprise, but the development of a monopoly in our public service business of all kinds, for the purpose of speculation and the acquisition of a virtually unlimited power of taxation over this community.

Does Mr. Walker believe that the unsettled railroad policy of Massachusetts is responsible for the terrible wrecks in Connecticut upon the New Haven's main lines to New York?

Does Mr. Walker believe that it was worry over the unsettled railroad policy of Massachusetts which made the New Haven managers "THINK ABOUT," instead of ACTING ON, the suggestion of the Interstate Commerce Commission concerning the protection of their tracks, made more than a year before the last accident?

Does Mr. Walker believe that it is the UNSETTLED POLICY of Massachusetts which has produced this strange "EPIDEMIC" of two thousand lame cars? The New Haven officials did not say so.

The Boston & Maine, under the New Haven's control, has already been permitted to raise millions of dollars "for the improvement of its service," yet its service under New Haven control has been very much worse than when it was under independent New England control.

Does Mr. Walker believe that it is the unsettled railroad policy of Massachusetts which has made the New Haven raise fares on its railroad in Connecticut?

What evidence can Mr. Walker produce that the railroad problem in Massachusetts will be settled if the bars are let down and the New Haven is given what it wants? Does Mr. Walker believe that if the Governor had permitted the New Haven to grab all the trolleys from Worcester westward that it would have been the end of the New Haven's attempt to control all the street railways of the State?

Does Mr. Walker believe that if Governor Foss had not vetoed the western trolley bill the New Haven would have alllowed a day to pass before it began a conspiracy to take the trolleys of all the rest of the State?

If it should get all the street railways of the Commonwealth, does Mr. Walker believe that its appetite for monopoly would be satisfied? Doesn't he know that in Connecticut it has taken gas and electric light companies and water power companies?

The New Haven pretends that it cannot give better service on the Boston & Maine because it is not allowed to consolidate with the Boston & Maine; in other words, because Massachusetts has so far refused to give up the last vestige of power to take away the Boston & Maine from the New Haven when the situation becomes UTTERLY INTOLERABLE, a condition which the Democratic party and Governor Foss believe has already been reached.

The New Haven's control of the Boston & Maine is exactly what the New Haven asked for and what the Legislature, in the folly of Mr. Walker's and Governor Draper's leadership, so unwisely granted upon the promises of the New Haven, SOLEMNLY MADE, TO IMPROVE THE SERVICE OF THE BOSTON & MAINE. Yet the New Haven has the effrontery to ask the people of Massachusetts for more power upon the strength of more worthless promises.

The truth is, and Mr. Walker ought to know it, that Massachusetts' railroad policy is settled and has been settled for many years, and that the only disturbance of that policy came from the unlawful schemes of the New Haven Railroad to gratify its insatiate appetite for aggrandizement and a stock-jobbing monopoly.

Mr. Walker ought to know that the real cause of the poor service which our railroads are giving New England today is not the unsettled railroad policy of Massachusetts, but EXTRAVAGANT PRICES WHICH THE NEW HAVEN HAS PAID FOR THE VICTIMS OF ITS VORACIOUS MONOPOLISTIC CRAVING.

Governor Foss and the Democratic party are defending the settled railroad policy of Massachusetts. That policy is, and always has been, against any attempt by a railroad to engage in any business save the legimate railroad operation.

But while our railroad policy IS settled, our railroad PROBLEM will NOT be settled until we have repaired the damage done by that great violation of our settled policy which occurred when Mr. Walker and his Republican associates and a Republican Governor permitted the New Haven to obtain its present indirect control of the Boston & Maine.

There lies the evil of the situation. Governor Foss and the Democratic party propose to correct it by taking the Boston & Maine away from the New Haven and by preserving it for Massachusetts and New England, in order that it may develop New England interests and may cease to be the instrument of New York stock gambling.

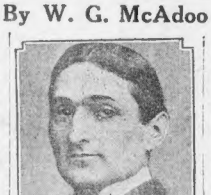
Wilson and Prosperity

W. G. McAdoo Points Out Reasons Why the Election of Gov. Wilson Will Aid Business. "The Prophets of Disaster Have an Exceedingly Small Audience in This Campaign"

By W. G. McAdoo



WILLIAM GIBBS McADOO

OF the many reasons for electing Woodrow Wilson President, perhaps the strongest of all is that from a material standpoint his election will be the best way to encourage a real and lasting business prosperity. It was noticeable as soon as he was nominated at Baltimore that there was an increase of confidence throughout the country. It was generally taken for granted that he would be elected, and the great mass of the solid men of the country felt that his election would be the best solution of our problems and the best method of quieting underlying unrest.

It has sometimes in the past been possible by the well-known Hanna methods to get up an artificial scare just before election at any change of administration, but the American people have thought too much and learned too much for that to be possible now.

Everything is favorable for a period of prosperity, provided the people are given what they really want, and provided it is given to them in a careful, quiet and sane manner. Governor Wilson's reiterated statement that he should carefully consult all sorts and conditions of men about all important measures shows a realization of what a safe and stable Democratic government ought to be.

The Governor is exactly the type of man to encourage prosperity. He cannot be put in such a position that the people will distrust him and begin violent agitation again. He is not "a large, good-natured body, entirely surrounded by men who know exactly what they want."

Prosperity can never again be helped by a President whom the people believe to be against their interests, because they will keep up a series of disturbing agitations.

While Governor Wilson could never be suspected of being the tool of specially favored interests, he avoids the other danger of being fond of sound and fury. He got a surprising amount done in New Jersey, but he got it done quietly.

He understands business and has been the friend and associate of business men all his later life. His views of what is needed coincide with the views of the most far-seeing and intelligent among the business men throughout the country. They do not want special privileges, for they have seen what special privilege has done to the business of the country. Nor do they want noise and needless agitation. What they want is intelligent comprehension of economic conditions and steady, reasonable administration of just laws.

Not only is Governor Wilson the ideal type of man for President, from the point of view of substantial "prosperity, but he has the enormous advantage of being able to work with the dominant party in Congress. If Mr. Taft or Mr. Roosevelt were to be elected we should have one long political fight between Congress and the Administration, and this could do nothing toward bringing about a settled feeling. On the other hand, it would increase the feeling that all conditions were unsettled. If Governor Wilson is President, his party will be in control of Congress, and a carefully outlined and harmonious program will remove the country's doubts, show it what to expect, and give that foundation of clearness and stability which is the greatest political requisite to a prosperity for which all the natural conditions already exist.

Woodrow Wilson is the only candidate who combines a mind democratic and progressive enough to suit the people, with a disposition conservative and cautious enough to avoid errors and needless commotion. He is the only candidate who would not be at a deadlock with Congress. He is the candidate who can help the era of prosperity to get well started and help it to take such form that it will benefit all classes and become securely established. His will not be the prosperity of illusion and of a few. It will be the prosperity that will affect all and will continue.

It is perfectly clear, too, that no political party, whether it be Democratic, Progressive or Republican, can materially affect, much less shatter, the immutable conditions upon which business prosperity rests.

Every manufacturer in this country has entered into contracts for the sale of material or product for future delivery. In some cases these contracts are already so large as to absorb the entire capacity of their plants for many months to come. In the first place, they could not cancel these contracts if they would, merely because one or the other political party is successful, and, in the second case, they would not cancel them if they could, because the contracts are undoubtedly profitable, and, as the manufacturers are in business for profit, they are not going to throw their profits away merely because of the success of any political party which they do not favor. So the factories must run to perform their contracts, no matter who is elected.

Judge Gary, of the United States Steel Corporation, in a speech at Pittsburgh on the night of October 25, testifies to the certainty of future prosperity. Being an intelligent man he must know that Governor Wilson is going to be elected. Nevertheless, he said:

"For the last few years following the bankers' panic of 1907 there has existed a feeling of uncertainty and a lack of confidence which have deterred the great purchasing public from entering the market, even to the extent of supplying their necessaries. This has been especially true of the railroad companies, who are among our largest patrons.

"In consequence the necessities of the consumers have piled up to such an extent that they have lately been forced to increase their purchases materially. When, therefore, the railroad companies and others similarly situated commenced to buy the general influence and effect were immediately felt, and buying on a large scale has developed. Moreover the bountiful crops and sound basic conditions of the country have made every one realize more clearly than ever before that prosperity in this splendid country of ours is to be the rule, and not the exception, notwithstanding at times we may be surrounded by adverse influences and unwarrantable interference, which in any ordinary country would bring prolonged distress and suffering. So we are happy today in the knowledge that we have on our books orders which will keep our mills running to their full capacity for months to come."

How can the election of Governor Wilson alter any of the fundamental conditions of prosperity so forcefully stated by Judge Gary? On the contrary, his election, and the establishment of stable government in the interest of all the people, will make prosperity doubly secure.

The prophets of disaster have an exceedingly small audience in this campaign, and a still smaller following.

No Special Secret About Earning Money; Find a Need and Fill It

Special Announcement to Women Who Earn Money at Home

One Dollar will be paid for every letter contributed by Boston AMERICAN readers, and used in the AMERICAN, containing ideas helpful to those WOMEN WHO WISH TO EARN MONEY AT HOME. This department is organized to help women help themselves. It will suggest opportunities for money-making and will help those who wish to develop the ideas they are now using in their homes for increasing their incomes. Won't you please tell me what you are doing and why you are doing it, so that we may be of service to some woman who is struggling in the dark and who needs our help? Address MABEL BARCLAY URY, Boston AMERICAN.

This Department Will Appear in the Daily and Sunday AMERICAN

By MABEL BARCLAY URY

THERE isn't any special secret about earning money. To many the earning of money is quite as mysterious as the tricks of the great magicians. But the tricks of the magicians, when you once understand how they are performed, are so simple that you find it hard to understand your failure to discover their simplicity yourself.

To earn money all you have to do is to fill the needs of people at a profit—that is, give them that which they cannot obtain elsewhere, and charge them more than it costs you. And the great salesman is the one who makes it easy, who makes it desirable for folks to buy what he offers.

You, for instance, have a home. You also have a desire to make money. What is there in that home that you can use for a money-making purpose? Surely you have something that others have not—something that others desire to have—something that others will gladly pay money for.

One woman started in business with a bathtub. That was her stock in trade. That was her chief capital. She handled that just as the Boston Elevated handles its street cars, or as a theatre handles its seats. She saw that this bathtub had the power to serve others. That is, her bathtub was needed by others who were willing to pay for the privilege. This is what she did and how she did it:

Before I print that letter, however, I must make another point. This woman not only makes money but acts as a standard-raiser. By telling those girls of the cleansing equipment she offers them, she awakens in them desires for better things. You know that no improvement goes alone. When folks once get the bath habit—the habit of keeping their bodies clean, it is only a step toward keeping their minds and their souls clean. A bathtub is a sermon in material form. It preaches the truth—and proves it in a practical way—that "Cleanliness is not next to, but is godliness."

After that interruption we are again ready to read the letter:

Use of Bathroom.

A near friend had a large up-to-date bathroom put in and was not long in getting it paid for by the following plan: Next door there lived quite a large number of girls employed in a nearby bindery and these girls were privileged to use the bath with hot or cold water and were allowed two large bath towels and other small toilet articles for twenty-five cents each, and surely the girls appreciated the privilege and the woman made quite a sum every week.

Her hours were from 6 a. m. to 11 p. m. and many of the girls took advantage of a refreshing bath every day. M. GERTRUDE RUNNEY.

No. 18 Williams street, Norwood, Mass.

Red Sox Hat Pins.

Here is a chance for a lot of home workers, and such pretty work. I am making "Red Sox" hat pins. I can sell them as fast as I get them made and cannot make them half fast enough. I take common black headed hat pins, six inches long, and make a ribbon rose or bud right over the head of the pin. They look very pretty in the tailored made hats and sell for 25 cents. H. C. J.

No. 87 Elmo street, Dorchester.

Folds Advertisements.

As I have take the AMERICAN now for three years, and continually work at home, I thought I might tell how I earn a little money at home. I fold papers or advertisements of these Monday sales each week. For this work I receive seven-eights of a cent a pound, and make $2 some weeks, and some weeks as high as $3. In this way I have bought many little things that I would otherwise have had to do without. MRS. J. F. FLYNN,

No. 170 Ward street, Roxbury, Mass.

Makes Cape Gloves.

My income is increased by making kid gloves, a variety called cape gloves, for street wear. I am paid $1.10 for a dozen pairs. I have no expenses, as all the material is furnished by the concern. MRS. B. RIEDE.

No. 5 Kenney street, Roxbury.

Waffle Making.

A woman who lived in a large apartment earned pin money by making waffles twice a week and serving to the families in her building. She sold them two for five cents. Here is her recipe for light golden brown waffles:

Two eggs, beaten separately, one quart sour milk, one-half teaspoon soda, dissolve in hot water, enough flour to make a stiff drop batter; one-half cup melted butter, and juice of one-half lemon. Add the whites of the eggs, well beaten, last. Bake in a hot waffle iron. MRS. L. F. O., Concord, Mass.

A BALLADE OF FATE

By William F. Kirk

THERE was a man who died too young—
A handsome fellow, rich and gay,
Loved by the men he walked among,
Ever a winner, fight or play.
They put him in the ground today
While crying comrades stood apart;
They did not know and could not say:
The Master has it on His chart.

There is a man forlorn, unstrung,
Hopeless and homeless, bent and gray;
Who, when the sparrow's song is sung,
Leaves the park bench and limps away,
Dreaming, perchance, of some old May
That makes a tear unwelcome start.
His course through life he cannot stay;
The Master has it on His chart.

There was a girl by sorrow stung—
A girl who could not whisper nay.
She listened to a lying tongue
And has her little debt to pay.
What is the sentence? Tell me, pray—
You with your sharp and slanderous dart.
O'er Love and Life we hold no sway.
The Master has it on His chart.

ENVOY.

Kismet, O Kismet! Though we stray
Until the ceasing of the heart,
Or join at once the vast array,
The Master has it on His chart.
